

JAPANESE DEMAND CONTROL IN MANCHURIA AS CHINESE ARE ROUTED IN TSITSIHAR AREA

Georgia Baptists Select Macon for 1932 Meeting

CONVENTION SETS $600,000 BUDGET; TO ADJOURN TODAY

Despite Economic Situation, Church Will Seek Same Sum as That of 1929 and 1930; 'Spiritual Deflation' Felt.

EMERGENCY FUND OF $75,000 IS SOUGHT

$10,000 Already Subscribed; Convention Approves $2,000,000 Endowment Campaign by Mercer.

Representatives of 425,000 Baptists in Georgia Wednesday voted to set a budget goal of $600,000 for 1932 and to hold next year's Georgia Baptist convention in Macon, on November 15, 16 and 17, with Dr. W. L. Pickens, of Tifton, former president of Mercer University, as convention preacher, with Rev. H. J. Brookshire, of Kibler, as his alternate.

Final authorization for the Mercer University centennial committee to proceed with plans for a $2,000,000 endowment campaign, tentatively set to begin next September, was given by the convention at the Wednesday night session when other educational institutions gave their allotted time over to Mercer representatives to explain the needs of the institution. Following appeals for support from several educators and leading Baptists, including Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer, the final vote of approval was cast.

The harmony which pervaded the Tuesday session of the convention, which is meeting at First Baptist church, continued Wednesday as financial matters held the spotlight in convention activities. Despite the economic situation, which was described as the worst in recent years, the budget goal was set at $600,000 for 1932, with 60 per cent of that sum to go to state causes and 40 per cent to worldwide causes. Leaders explained that cost and promotion of the two divisions would be placed on a pro ratio of the appropriation.

The sum is the same as that of 1929 and that of last year.

"Spiritual Deflation" Felt.
Dr. W. J. McClothin, president of the Southern Baptist convention, in making the principal speech of the convention Wednesday morning, told the congregation of ministers and delegates that they must overcome a "spiritual deflation" as well as a financial deflation if the work of the church is to be adequately financed. His remarks were directly along the line of the budget goal and plans for expenditures next year.

"The church," said Dr. McClothin, "is the financial straits not only because of the general financial depression, but also because people have become afraid to give, and because they have been provided with so many new ways to spend money."

"The uncertainty of the past two years has seriously affected liberality. People fear to let loose what they have, and they have not yet learned to

Hoover and Grandi Agree On Arms, Differ on Debts

BY C. P. WILLIAMSON.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—President Hoover and Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, spread the trouble map of the world before them to night and searched together for a way to make it one of prosperous peace.

With Secretary Stimson, the two sought to define the world's difficulties in which international co-operation or Italian-American collaboration could offer a solution.

They spoke in English, unimpeded by interpreters. Formally was abandoned. Secretary Stimson said they talked "like three human beings."

The conferences began early in the morning.

Educators Laud Time Change As Aid to Students, Parents

Superintendents Cite Advantages of Institution of 'Sun Time' for Pupils; Campaign Planned.

As voters of Atlanta Wednesday were preparing for the election December 2 on the question of whether Atlanta shall be included in the eastern standard time zone, proponents and opponents of the proposed change began a heated campaign and there was promise that the largest vote ever polled in a general election will be cast in the issue.

George W. West, chairman of the eastern standard time committee, composed of businessmen and Civic Club members, issued a statement in which he said that the committee will wage an educational campaign designed to acquaint the 16,800 voters entitled to cast ballots with the facts, and Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, and Jere Wells, superintendent of the Fulton county system, asserted that the change would be advantageous.

Superintendents for Change.

"Not only would it be an advantage to school children to go to school at 9 o'clock under the proposed change, instead of 8:30 o'clock under the present system, but they would be on exact sun time," Sutton said.

"This would mean that the children in reality would come to school only half an hour earlier than at present, but that they would have that additional half-hour of daylight in the afternoon for athletics and other recreations."

"I subscribe to the proposal," Wells said. "It appears to me that it would be an advantage for the children to operate on sun time. I can see no hardship this would work on any student or parent, and there would be many advantages."

While the superintendent of the Atlanta system was favoring the change, the superintendent of the Fulton county system was favoring the change.

Poisoning of Husband And Child Confessed

PEKIN, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—State's Attorney Louis Dunkelberg announced tonight that Mrs. Alice Mason, 50, year-old widow of DeLavan, Ill., had signed a statement admitting she killed her husband, John, a year ago and her daughter, Mildred, 12, last August, with poison.

Mrs. Mason charged, Dunkelberg said, that the poison was supplied her by Dr. B. M. Baringer, who signed the girl's death certificate. The state's attorney said, however, that he doubted the physician participated in the alleged plot.

Mrs. Mason confessed the deaths to Dunkelberg, Sheriff James J. Crosby, Coroner A. E. Allen and several others, they said, after being questioned eight hours. She admitted collecting $1,000 after the death of her husband a year ago at Emman, Ill., and a like sum after Mildred's death.

SPARTA STEWARDS RESIGN IN PROTEST ON PASTOR'S TRIAL

Resolutions Adopted Attack 'Cannanism' and Criticize Actions of N. Georgia Conference.

SPARTA, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Resignation of 11 of 13 members of the board of stewards of the Sparta Methodist church as a protest at the suspension of Rembert G. Smith as pastor was announced today.

Mr. Smith, who during the past few years had sharply criticized what he termed "political activities" of several bishops of the church, was suspended from the ministry for one year by the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Atlanta last week, for "high unministerial" conduct. Details of the charges were not published.

G. B. Moore, a member of the board, said the stewards presented their resignation last night and at the same time drew up a statement protesting the action of the conference.

The suspended minister had condemned the part of Bishop James Cannon Jr. in the 1928 presidential election campaign and charged other high officials of the church with "political activities" against former Governor Alfred E. Smith, the democratic nominee for president in 1928.

Attacks 'Cannanism'.
Mr. Moore said the stewards' statement attacked 'Cannanism' and also criticized the Rev. C. D. Reed, of Jonesboro, Ga., who was assigned to succeed Mr. Smith here.

Mr. Reed, Moore said, signed a statement at a district meeting of Methodists near Atlanta some time ago urging Mr. Smith to withdraw suits for libel instituted against four bishops of the church. Moore said a twelfth member of the board of stewards, now out of the city, was expected to resign on his return here, but that a thirteenth member had refused to resign or sign the statement.

He said "an overwhelming percentage of the membership" had asked the North Georgia conference to return Mr. Smith to Sparta, "and, because the conference refused to do this, we saw nothing to do but to resign."

In Athens today Mr. Smith said he had no comment to make on the action of the stewards, but announced he had decided definitely to appeal his case to the appeals committee of the church, which meets in Louisville, Ky., in a few months. He said he would be represented by Dr. W. F. King, of Nashville, Tenn., book editor of the church, who was counsel at the trial before a committee of 13 of the North Georgia conference in Atlanta.

He said he was considering the removal of his family to Athens.

Denied Church Columns.
The stewards in their statement said Bishop Cannon, in charge of the North Georgia conference, "has not even replied to important communications sent him" during the recent conference in Atlanta, and said their resolutions "in opposition to Cannanism have been denied a place in the columns" of the newspapers of the church.

It said the Wesleyan Christian Ad-

Cyr's Ouster Suit Dismissed by Court

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Paul N. Cyr's suit to oust Huey P. Long as governor of Louisiana was dismissed in Caddo district court today on grounds of no cause for action.

Judge T. F. Bell, in giving his decision on Governor Long's motion to dismiss the suit, denied Long's contention that the court was without jurisdiction but upheld the governor's claim that Cyr had no cause to enter suit.

Counsel for Dr. Cyr announced that an appeal would be taken to the Louisiana supreme court.

Cyr, as lieutenant governor under Long, took the governor's oath on October 15, and brought suit to oust Long on the contention that Long had automatically vacated the governor's chair after filing his credentials of election to the United States senate.

Widely-Known Atlanta Newspaperman Succumbs to Heart Attack.

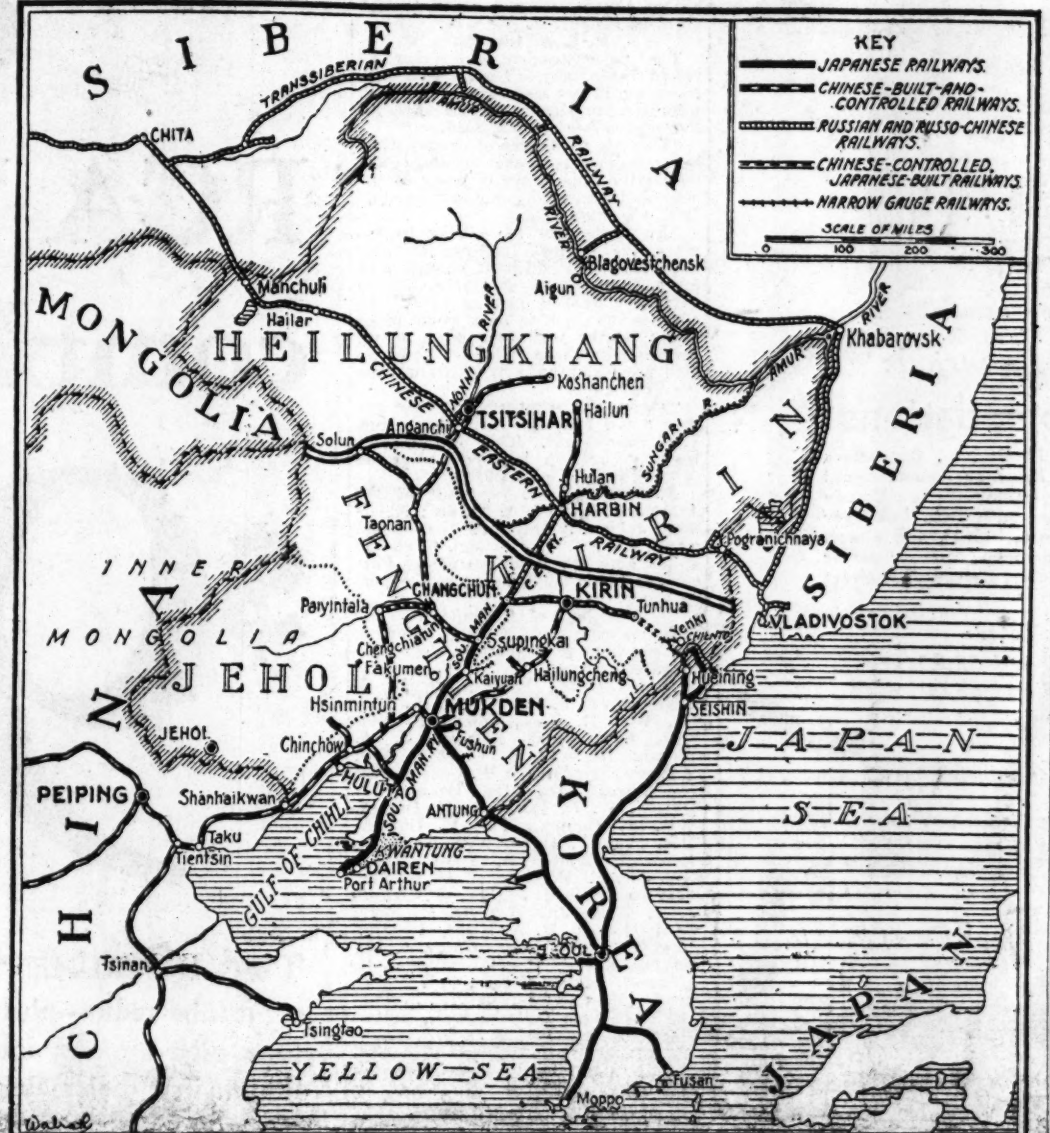

James Banks Nevin, editor of the Atlanta Georgian and one of the best known newspapermen in the country, died at 9 o'clock Wednesday night following a heart attack suffered at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon as he sat in his office writing one of the editorials which have made him famous. He was 58 years old.

While not considered in a serious condition during the last few months, Mr. Nevin's health had been impaired and his physician had ordered him to conserve his strength. The heart attack came unexpectedly to members of his family, who said that he seemed to be as well as usual Wednesday morning. They were all at his bedside when death came.

Shortly after taking an editorial in shorthand, Mr. Nevin's secretary left the office for only a few moments and when he returned found the editor unconscious and gasping for

General Mah's Battle-Wearied Soldiers Struggle Valiantly To Mend Broken Lines

The vital railroads which are entangling three nations in Manchuria are shown in the map, while the double line, running from the Mongolian border to the Russian border, near Vladivostok, indicates the Japanese and soviet spheres in Manchuria—Russia to the north and Japan to the south. It readily can be seen that General Honjo's advance to Tsitsihar places the Japanese "straddle" of the Chinese Eastern railroad, operated by Russia and China, and far into the soviet sphere. troops dug hasty entrenchments, and built temporary machine-gun emplacements at the top.

One-third of Mah's total forces, numbering about 7,000, constituted his left wing, chiefly cavalry units, armed with carbines and mounted on small Mongolian ponies.

Throughout the day, Japanese bombing planes had worked havoc with this force, dispersing troops after troops, only to see them reformed, miles away, to return to the charge.

Here, in the cold and darkness, Mah's soldiers waited with fixed bayonets for the final crushing assault of the Japanese infantry and light artillery which, earlier in the day, had crashed through the lines at Anganchi, driving a wedge between the two Mah's infantrymen were well equipped for the below-zero temperature that closed in over the Manchurian plains just as the early-morning Japanese attack began. Their uniforms were well padded with cotton rolls, and their enormous black wool headresses served the double purpose of keeping them warm and of giving them a "frightful" appearance.

The Chinese cavalrymen are expert riders, and have the additional count of protection of great boots, reaching far above their knees.

SINO-SOVIET ROAD CUT BY INVASION

Chinese Casualties During Defense of Tsitsihar Reported To Have Mounted Into Thousands.

By The Associated Press.

The Japanese army routed General Mah Chan-shan's Chinese troops in Manchuria yesterday in an all-day battle fought in below zero weather. Unqualified dispatches from Mukden said Tsitsihar and Anganchi had been occupied by the Japanese, but Peiping reported receiving a radio message from Tsitsihar saying both cities were in the hands of the Chinese.

A telegram from the front, received at Mukden, said the Japanese had occupied Tsitsihar station on the Chinese Eastern railway, to the south of the city of that name, and that the Chinese were being attacked along the railway.

Japan abandoned all talk of compromise before the council of the League of Nations in Paris. The Japanese delegate laid down a program of peace conditions described in some league circles as tantamount to turning Manchuria into a political and economic protectorate of Japan.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese spokesman, told the council China was prepared to invoke Article 13 of the covenant and would insist that the council do its full duty under the covenant, the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty.

Dispatches received in Tokyo said the Chinese casualties in yesterday's fighting ran into thousands.

A Rango dispatch from Anganchi said General Hasebe, commander of the Japanese advance guard, had set up headquarters outside the walled city of Tsitsihar and that the Chinese Eastern railway seemed to be operating almost normally.

A Tokyo newspaper's correspondent, who flew over the battlefield, reported that Japanese airplanes bombed an armored train near Anganchi in which they suspected General Mah was traveling northward.

Japan notified soviet Russia that it would hold the Chinese Eastern railway "partly responsible" for hostilities in the Nonni river area of Manchuria because the railway had transported Chinese reinforcements, which might be taken as offering assistance to General Mah.

Russia had reminded Japan of a promise to maintain soviet interests in Manchuria. The Chinese Eastern railway is jointly owned by Russia and China and the soviet government said a reported Japanese plan to cut

R. W. BURNS HEADS MISSIONARY GROUP

Atlanta Minister Elected President at Georgia Christian Society Meet.

Electing the Rev. Robert W. Burns, co-pastor of the Atlanta Peachtree Christian church, as president, designating the month of May as missions month, and receiving the annual report of the treasury, the Georgia Christian Missionary Society Wednesday night continued its three-day convention with addresses by F. M. Rogers, of Indianapolis, and J. Warren Hastings, of Savannah.

The Southern Christian Home for Children, 1011 Cleburne avenue N. E., will be dedicated in ceremonies which will be held from 12:30 to 3 o'clock this afternoon at the home.

Following a luncheon served by the home, L. E. Rogers, chairman of the board, will preside at the dedication service, which will be featured by an address by F. M. Rogers, secretary of the department of benevolence of the United Christian Missionary Society. Dr. Burns will read the responsive sentences of dedication, and James A. Crain, of Indianapolis, will offer the dedicatory prayer.

A convention session in the church school auditorium will open at 9:30 o'clock this morning, following the 8:30 o'clock conferences. Mr. Nay will preside at an all-Georgia banquet at 6 o'clock tonight, with W. B. Clemmer, of St. Louis, as the speaker.

Services tonight will include addresses by Mr. Crain and A. E. Cory, of Indianapolis.

The adoption of a $5,500 budget for the ensuing year was included in the recommendations made by Rev. Bruce Nay, corresponding secretary and editor of the Christian Messenger. Nay also recommended that the church continue its support of the young people's conference which will be held next July in Oxford, Ga.

The financial report to the society showed receipts of $3,464.85, which includes church mission offerings and Bible schools. The report showed the organization of a new church and Bible school at Brunswick, and the addition during the past year of 1,200 new members to the 131 Christian churches in the state.

Elected with President Burns were Rev. Charles S. Van Winkle, of Waycross, as vice president, and Mrs. James H. Barfield, of Bainbridge, as secretary. Board members named are Dr. C. R. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church of Atlanta; the Rev. R. W. Burns, of Waycross, and W. R. Lang, of Sandersville.

Mrs. L. O. Turner, of Decatur, was elected delegate to the international convention of Disciples of Christ in 1932 and the Rev. Cecil A. Jarman, pastor of Decatur First Christian church, as alternate.

EDUCATORS LAUD CHANGE IN TIME

change, about 50 presidents of Atlanta Teachers Association opposed the change. They cited that it would work hardships on both students and mothers to get the children to classes earlier in the day.

The eastern time campaign committee disclosed that a group of the most prominent Atlanta business, commercial, mercantile and banking leaders are members, and that it is representative of persons in all walks of life.

West claimed that the solidarity of the sentiment in favor of the change is indicative of the way voters will cast their ballots. He cited a poll of more than 1,100 firms holding membership in the Chamber of Commerce in substantiation of that claim, and held that without exception they have told the committee that they employes want the change.

A list of the existing instance we have checked, want the change," West said. "They want that extra hour for recreation."

Business Heads Favor Plan.

W. D. Hoffman, district manager of the Otis Elevator Company and prominent in business circles, said Wednesday that his company had asked him to be permitted to come to work earlier in the day and to devote a part of their lunch hour to work in order that they might have their duties earlier and thus have the time saved for recreation.

J. P. Allen, president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants Association; Roy McCraw, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and others voiced vigorous support of the plan.

P-T-A Objects.

The parent-teacher opposition as voiced Wednesday is from a body representing 15,000 members, Mrs. R. P. Cheshire, president of the Atlanta Parent-Teacher council, said.

"There is no danger of eastern time being endorsed, if our members will realize the importance of going to the polls and registering our sentiments," Mrs. Cheshire said.

"No terms are too strong to express the officers' feelings on this question. It is difficult enough for our mothers to get their children in school by the opening hour. To advance the clock an hour would mean rising in the night for most of us, particularly those with children in high schools, usually far distant from the homes."

"Those who want eastern time are only a few business houses with New York connections. They fail to realize the hardship it would work on the motherhood of Atlanta."

A. Steve Nance, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades; Alderman John F. Scott, of the second ward; Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, in charge of the high school section of the Parent-Teacher council, and others opposed the plan.

Members of Committee.

In addition to West the following are members of the eastern time campaign committee:

Roy McCraw, Ivan Allen, R. J. Reynolds Jr., J. P. Allen, L. Austin, Wm. R. Beck, Joseph E. Berman, Gregory C. Bowden, J. A. Brown, Rev. L. R. Christie, Mrs. Wilbur Colvin, Leslie W. Conger, Milton Dargan Jr., Mrs. Bonnie Orr Deaton, W. D. Donk, A. R. Dorson, Wm. A. Dunlap, Wm. F. Dunbar, Wm. P. Dunn, Mrs. Nellie N. Edwards, Walter O. Foote, Frank Gillespie, E. H. Ginn, J. C. Grabbe, Claude Grizzard Jr., T. P. Hicks, J. A. Higgs Jr., Wm. D. Hoffman, Fred Houser, R. A. Kline, Fleming Law, F. J. McCarthy, Harry S. McCowen, Robert P. McLarty, A. G. Maxwell, James Morton, S. D. Mulholland, Miss Clara Noll, F. J. Patton, W. George Pollock, A. L. Potter, Joseph Raine, Joe W. Ray, Fred Shafter, Frank K. Shaw, C. A. Smith, W. R. C. Smith, Frank M. Slaughter, Mrs. D. R. Stauffer, Edgar N. Taylor, Miss Letta Thompson, Mrs. R. L. Turman, Mrs. R. M. Walker, Edgar Watkins, Jack W. Wood Jr., W. Whittington, J. H. Wood Jr., T. Guy Woolford, George B. Yancey.

Committee Aims Explained.

West's statement explaining endeavors of the campaign committee follows:

"When it was learned by leaders of the civic and business organizations of Atlanta that eastern time would be submitted to the voters in December a meeting was called of over 100 heads of the business and civic organizations of this city for the purpose of discussing eastern time for Atlanta and its benefits to this community."

"Every one present at this meeting went on record as favoring eastern time and those present were appointed to constitute the eastern time campaign committee and each obligated to go back to his organization and carry on a active campaign among the membership, requesting that each get in touch with his employees regarding the advantages of eastern time, register and go to the polls and vote on December 2. It was the desire of this committee to get an expression from the voters of the city of Atlanta, a fair expression as to their attitude on eastern time and this can only be done by endeavoring to get out a record vote at the general election on December 2."

"Of course the committee realizes that the election on December 2 is about the worst day in the year for eastern time to be voted on by the people but, at the same time, every member of the Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants' Association, Insurance Men's Association, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Industrial Bureau, woman's division, Retail Food Dealers' Association, Quality Service Stores and the heads of every business and manufacturing plant in the city of Atlanta will be contacted and notified of this election and urged to go to the polls and vote on December 2 on eastern time for Atlanta whether they favor it or not."

Pamphlet Prepared.

"We notice that the statement was made in council that the voters of this city would not take any interest in it and the vote for eastern time on December 2 would not be representative. We wish to state that the campaign committee has prepared a pamphlet arguing for the advantages of eastern time which will be sent to every registered voter in the city of Atlanta prior to the election on December 2, urging the voter to read it and go to the polls and vote according to their conviction."

"The campaign committee wishes to state further that it believes that with the interest and support it has received that the largest vote will be cast on December 2, regardless of all drawbacks. To date, the campaign committee invited opposition, as we desire to have a fair expression of the people and endeavor to present to them the sides of the case and those who do oppose eastern time are urged to oppose it, giving their reasons, why and wherefore, and come out in the open."

"The eastern time campaign committee has set up headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building and anyone in the city desiring information regarding eastern time can obtain same by applying at the Chamber of Commerce. Speakers from the eastern time committee have already appeared before 20 of the leading organizations in Atlanta and they have unanimously endorsed eastern time and obligated to carry on a program. Those heading this endeavor for eastern time conscientiously believe that it is best for the business interests of this city in every way and they will continue to use every effort to secure eastern time not only for Atlanta, but for the state."

"A majority of the representatives in the Georgia legislature come from cities and counties that have eastern time and if we fail to get a majority vote on December 2, at the next session of the legislature an intensive state campaign will be carried on to secure eastern time for the state of Georgia."

"It was reported in the papers that the resolution offered in council was to delay the referendum on eastern time to a later election, but after investigation and reading a copy of the resolution, no such provision was made. The resolution was one to eliminate the eastern time referendum from the ballot on December 2, and, without knowledge to the public, prohibit the people from voting on this question, which has been one of discussion and debate for some years and, in fairness to all the people, whether they favor it or not, should go to the polls and vote for or against it on December 2."

"The campaign committee has asked the newspapers of the city to support them in securing eastern time and data, maps and charts will be compiled and expressions and interviews from the leaders of this community will be sent to the papers in order that they can be published, thereby giving the people all details and information regarding eastern time so that they can vote intelligently."

GEORGIA BAPTISTS SELECT MACON

deny themselves these new luxuries, many of which have come to be practical necessities."

Difficulty Is Psychological.

Dr. McClothlin added that many persons cannot give as largely to church work as in the past "but we must realize that there is a great mass of wealth not now enlisted in our work and that the difficulty is largely psychological and spiritual, rather than financial and material."

Dr. McClothlin laid particular stress on the "Every Member Canvass" which is now the keynote of Baptist affairs all over the south. Such a move, he said, was designed to reach those Baptists not ordinarily reached by the appeal for the general work of the church.

$75,000 Fund Sought.

Following the adoption of the budget goal the convention launched a movement within the body to raise a $75,000 emergency fund to care for anticipated deficits on this year's operations. More than $10,000 of the total was subscribed on the floor Wednesday and a special committee headed by Dr. T. M. Calloway, of Thomasville, was appointed to raise the balance. Others on the committee are Dr. Louis D. Newton, of Atlanta; Dr. Bunyan Stephens, of Rome; Rev.

George C. Gibson, of Tifton; Rev. Marshall Nelms, of Hartwell; Rev. W. E. Howard, of Waynesboro; Dr. E. F. Campbell, of Macon, and Dr. J. E. Sammons, of Macon, newly elected president of the convention.

In order to complete the fund the committee announced that all preachers in the state would conduct campaigns in their churches to give special emergency offerings.

Regarding the two divisions of the budget goal for 1932, it was carefully explained that the state causes group consists of state missions, orphan's home, Georgia Baptist hospital, Mercer University, Bessie Tift College, Shorter College, Brewton Parker Institute, Norman Junior College; and the southwide causes group consists of foreign missions, home missions, ministerial relief, New Orleans hospital and southwide education, embracing a number of theological and training schools.

Christian Index Reports.

First on the Wednesday afternoon program was a report on the Christian Index, Baptist organ of Atlanta, and second oldest of its kind in America, by W. R. Feagin, of Baxley. The report on home missions work was made by Rev. A. M. McCool, of Hoboken, Ga., and discussed by Jacob Gartenhouse, of the home boards missions to Jerusalem. Other reports were made on foreign mission work, Sunday School work, the relief and annuity board. The report on the time, place and preacher for the next convention was the last event on the afternoon program.

JAMES B. NEVIN, EDITOR, IS DEAD

With the department's approval of the device, Eastern Air has announced that the automatic pilot will be installed on all the 16-passenger Condors serving Atlanta, Richmond and the other cities on its lines. The device makes instant corrections that the pilot normally would have to do and keeps the craft flying in a level position on a true course. It takes over the handling of the ship, once the desired altitude has been attained, and leaves the human pilot to concentrate on navigation, radio communication, and position-checking.

The Condors will be the first commercial airplanes to use the robots, though they have been in use on army bombers for several years.

The aviation committee of city council, headed by Councilman Joseph E. Berman, will gather tonight to seek an adjustment in the bid made by the Griffin Construction Company for erection of the new administration building at Candler field. This bid, which called for an expenditure of something more than $32,000, was accepted by the aviation committee and referred to council for sanction. There it was rejected and turned back to the aviation committee when labor interests in council objected to laborers' wages called for in the agreement. The sooner this project is given final sanction, the more quickly a long-needed improvement will be provided. It might be pointed out that erection of the building can't do which institution he was a trustee at the time of his death. In 1902 he was elected to the Georgia assembly from Floyd county and was one of the youngest members ever to serve in that body.

Leaving college only a few years before the Spanish-American War, Mr. Nevins enlisted and became a captain in the Second regiment of Georgia Volunteers.

He began his newspaper career on the old Rome Tribune under John Temple Graves and after two years as city and managing editor he went to Washington where he became associate editor of the Washington Herald from 1906 to 1910.

It was while writing for the Washington Herald that Mr. Nevins gained national prominence as a paragrapher and close student of political affairs, a reputation which he held until his death. During the last four years when his physical strength was something less than his former vigor, his sparkling virility was unimpaired.

Came Here in 1910.

When William Randolph Hearst acquired the Atlanta Georgian in 1910, Mr. Nevins was engaged as editorial writer and managing editor. His wide knowledge of southern people was the cause of his selection for the important post, his friends said.

Once back in his native southland, Mr. Nevins gained new fame as a chronicler of personal events in his columns and editorials. Never harsh, never pugnacious, he wrote in a virile manner that colleagues and opponents alike admired. Of later years his column, "People and Things," gained southwide recognition as pungent observations written by a stylist in a sincere vein. His thorough knowledge of Georgia and Georgians furnished the background for his themes on sectional affairs and he became one of the widely quoted editors in a section of famous journalists.

Serving as managing editor from 1910 to 1912, Mr. Nevins was elevated to the editorship in 1912. He won instant recognition as a diagnostician of editorial questions and a wide following among newspaper readers. His editorials and paragraph columns were noted for their human appeal and sympathetic treatment of the underdog.

Mr. Nevins was active in all civic affairs and had served on numerous committees and organizations which aimed at the betterment of his city and state. He was a member of the Episcopal church and was a Shriner and Elk. His social club connections were with the Capital City and Piedmont Driving clubs. He was a member of Chi Phi fraternity and was at one time president of the Chi Phi Alumni Association of Georgia.

Jr., all of Atlanta; one sister, Mrs. Randolph Wright, of Atlanta; four grandchildren, Maurine, Mary Louise, May Emory and M. A. Nevins Jr. The Nevins home is at 138 Eighth street, N. E.

BOYKIN APPEALS FOR CODE CHANGES

Solicitor-General, in Address on "Rackets," Urges Revision of Jurisprudence System.

An army of 350,000 persons is engaged in the business of crime and racket in the United States alone and it reaps a harvest greater than all other legitimate losses and more than is spent each year on college education, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin told those present at the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce forum luncheon Wednesday in an address on "Rackets."

Mr. Boykin hit technicalities which cause "jammed court dockets, overflowing jails and provide a shield for the criminal," and made a plea for adoption of a revised system of jurisprudence for the state, which he said would be effected only over the opposition of some lawyers.

His remarks precipitated a statement by Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, that "the higher courts should rule on those convicted in the recent city graft expose, or Harry York (one of those now serving a sentence on the chancery) should be freed and a public apology made to him. Such delays," said Mr. Howell, "inspire crime and cause the public to lose confidence in the courts."

Mr. Boykin was introduced by Herbert Porter, vice president and general manager of the Atlanta Geo-

Relief Group Seeks Volunteer Sewers

An appeal for volunteer workers to make clothes for the school children in families of the unemployed was issued Wednesday by Mrs. M. H. Margeson, who is in charge of the sewing room of the women's division of the mayor's committee on emergency relief.

Mrs. Margeson said that 200 garments were delivered to the children Wednesday. The sewing room on the seventh floor of the city hall has material and 15 sewing machines, but workers are needed to man the machines, she said. Persons willing to aid in making the clothes are requested to report to her this morning at the sewing room.

gian, who presided as toastmaster. Mr. Howell was called upon to thank the solicitor for his fearless denunciation of law-abiding citizens.

Leveling a sweeping fire against slot machines, punch boards, check and solicitation rackets, Mr. Boykin blamed the present legal system for failure to cope with the situation and challenged the organization before which he was speaking to assist him and others in securing passage of the revised penal code at the next legislature.

A code revision was perfected by a committee headed by Judge Samuel H. Sibley, and submitted to the governor's office about three years ago, but never has been passed by the legislature. That code should be enacted into law, the solicitor said.

"If that revision is made, it will relieve congested court dockets and overcrowded jail conditions," Mr. Boykin said. "Crime is no longer a sporadic thing. It is a highly organized business. Legal technicalities protect it and keep law-abiding citizens from obtaining the protection to which they are entitled."

"The merchants and businessmen of Atlanta should co-operate in not making contributions to causes with which they are not familiar. When such subscriptions are made without proper investigation, they encourage rackets."

"If the present laws are modified, it will save 50 per cent of the cost of trial of cases in Fulton county. There is no reason why an indictment should not be amended by the solicitor just so long as the nature of the charge against the defendant is not changed. It would not prevent him getting a fair trial."

The speaker told of the devious methods employed by perpetrators of rackets, especially in Fulton county. "Fulton courts have done a good job," Mr. Howell said, "but the appeals, on technicalities, now are hanging fire in higher courts. They should pass on them or Harry York should be liberated and a public apology made to him."

U. D. C. HONORS MEN WHO FOLLOWED LEE

BY TED GILL

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Impressive memorials for their revered dead were held today by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Pausing for brief services in the midst of their annual convention, the delegates also paid tribute to southern leaders in the War Between the States and to the principles for which they stood.

Immortal memories of such men as Jefferson Davis and General Robert E. Lee were kindled anew as they shared in the solemn reverence for all those who gave their services to the cause of the Confederacy.

Standing on a rostrum banked with flowers, Mrs. Maude Turpley Abernathy, of Chicago, delivered a memorial to the deceased soldiers in gray and their sons and daughters.

Since that fateful day at Appomattox," Mrs. Abernathy said, "when the ragged and starving veterans of the most glorious army of all time clustered around their defeated chieftain in the agony of a last farewell, they have justified his confidence in them by obeying implicitly his injunction to 'return to their homes and become worthy citizens.'"

"We mourn today the passing of many of these heroes—whom we have seen fill high places with honor and distinction. Though they are forever lost to us, we are comforted by the fact that they have again joined Lee's legion and are in glorious company."

Concluding the services, which were in charge of Mrs. Charles O'Donnell Mackall, of Baltimore, Md., a representative of each state delegation advanced to the rostrum and placed a flower on a mammoth wreath.

In calling the business meeting to order today, Mrs. L. M. Bashinsky, of Troy, Ala., delivered the president general's annual address. In it she reviewed projects completed by the organization since its last convention in Asheville, N. C., and urged delegates to bend their efforts to other objectives.

These included completion of the Jefferson Davis Historical Foundation, the Mrs. L. H. Raines Memorial scholarship, the Lee-Stratford Memorial, increased subscriptions to the Confederate Veteran, official publication of the organization, and contributions to the Mrs. Norman V. Randolph relief fund for needy Confederate women.

The president general reported the organization has an endowment fund of $285,464.46 and scholarships totaling $11.

Presentation of reports by various committee chairmen and transaction of other convention routine germane to the organizations welfare consumed the remainder of the day's program.

MACKAY'S FIRST WIFE WILLS WEALTH TO FOUR

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine Dues Blake, former wife of Clarence H. Mackay and later of Dr. Joseph A. Blake, left her $802,627 estate to four children by her second marriage, and nothing to those of the first marriage, a transfer tax appraisal filed today revealed.

Among the children born of her marriage with Mr. Mackay, who is now the husband of Anna Case, opera singer, are Mrs. Ellen Mackay Berlin, Mrs. Katherine O'Brien and John William Mackay.

She said in her will the Mackay children had been amply provided for by their grandfather. Her son, John W. Mackay, was appointed one of the executors.

The four Blake children, who get most of the estate, are Katherine, Joan, Mary D. and William A. D. Blake. Each receives about $159,144 in trust.

LAVAL AGAIN CALLED TO TELL OF PARLEYS

Deputies Defeat Peremptory Summons To Premier by Narrow Margin.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Premier Laval narrowly escaped a peremptory summons today from the foreign affairs committee of the French chamber to appear and report more fully on the results of his recent visits to Washington, Berlin and London.

A motion to that effect, sponsored by socialist opponents of the premier and Foreign Minister Briand, was passed by the narrow margin of 11 to 9. But some members induced the sponsors to modify their resolution, and it was converted into a polite request, asking him to appear after the conclusion of chamber debate on foreign policy.

A demand that the government publish a "yellow book" on the Franco-American conference at London and other capitals was made by Deputy Henri Guernut. It also was requested by Deputy Marius Moutet that the committee be informed on preparations for the 1932 disarmament conference and the League's efforts to settle the Manchurian conflict.

The committee also decided to ask Minister of Finance Pierre Laval to explain loans made by the Bank of France, together with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, to the Bank of England.

BUSINESS BETTER, SAYS J. P. MORGAN

Noted Financier Optimistic Concerning Conditions in England.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan, back from Europe, is optimistic concerning conditions in England.

He granted one of his rare interviews to ship reporters yesterday as the liner Mauretania waited for the fog to lift sufficiently for her to come up the harbor.

"Things are looking a good deal better in England," he said. "It was a marvelous election and it looks as if the national government will be in for a long time. No party has ever had that majority before. The government is stable."

"Isn't unemployment in England decreasing?" he was asked.

"Yes," he said, "I think that is the case."

He declined to comment on world economic conditions or American affairs.

Mr. Morgan sailed for Europe last July. He appeared to be in excellent health.

$2,300 for Old Sayings

No. 74 The proverb answer is.....

Name .....

Street address, box or rural route number.....

City..... State.....

Don't let this picture "stump" you. If you cannot recall the old saying that fits it, or any of the other pictures of the series, call at the office of The Constitution and obtain one of the helpful and valuable reference lists of 2,000 proverbs. Or a copy of this interesting list may be had by mail by writing to the Proverb Editor, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and enclosing a two-cent stamp for return postage.

Instructions. The total prize money to be awarded Proverb Contest entrants is $2,300. The first prize is $1,000; the second, $500; the third, $250; the fourth, $100, and the fifth, $50. The supplementary prizes consist of ten prizes of $25 each and fifteen prizes of $10 each. There is no charge to take part in the contest and it is not necessary for contestants to register. There are no subscriptions to get, and nonsubscribers are invited to take part. There will be no tie-breaking series of pictures and no extra work will be required. The correct answers are what count. The proverb pictures and answers are not to be submitted until all of the pictures have been published.

Proverb Contest Is Nearing Final Stages; $2,300 in Cash

Last Picture Appears November 23, But Deadline Is Not Until December 7

BY THE PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR.

"All's well that ends well," according to a popular adage. So it is with the proverb game, which is ending amidst the plaudits of its enthusiastic players. Before many more days have gone by, The Constitution's cashier will begin counting out $2,300, to be divided among 30 readers who have succeeded in finding the most correct solutions.

These twelve suggestions will be of considerable assistance to contestants as the contest nears its end:

1. Take your time. Two full weeks are allowed for contestants to recheck their answers and submit their sets. Although the last picture will be published on Monday, November 23, the final deadline is not until midnight, Monday, December 7. None of the sets will be checked and judged until all of them have been received.

Contestants who send their sets in early will have no advantage whatever over those who wait until the last day of grace. Don't hurry!

2. Arrange your pictures in numerical order, placing No. 1 first, or on top. If available, do not crease or roll them.

3. Be sure that your set consists of the entire series of 80 pictures. Sets that have less than that number will, of course, be rejected by the judges.

4. Be sure that you have written your answers on the coupons in the space provided for that purpose, and that your name and address appear beneath each picture.

5. Be sure that you haven't written more than one proverb answer on any one coupon.

6. Be sure that your answers are reasonable. If you are in doubt about any of them, take full advantage of the rule which permits a contestant to send in as many complete sets as he or she desires. On the extra sets extra answers can be written, which gives more than one opportunity of winning the first prize of $1,000, or one of the other 29 handsome awards.

7. Remember, the free list of 2,000 proverbs does not have all of the correct answers, as explained in the lower right hand corner, page 3, of the circular on which the list is printed. The proverb answers not found in the free list can be supplied by recalling proverbs from memory, by consulting reference books on the subject of adages, or by using "Proverbs of All Ages," "Proverbs of All Ages" is the most widely read book of its kind in the world, and has all of the correct answers between its covers. It can be had for 50 cents a copy by calling at the office of The Constitution, or by mail for 54 cents.

8. Remember, it is not required that pictures be pasted in a notebook, bound, stapled, prepared in loose leaf style, or embellished, although they are acceptable in these forms.

9. Lost, mutilated or soiled pictures can be promptly replaced by calling at the office of The Constitution, or by mail. All of the pictures as well as the book "Proverbs of All Ages," will be kept on hand until December 7. These pictures, printed on smooth white paper, are described elsewhere on this page under the heading of "Contest Information."

10. After picture No. 80 has been published, contestants may bring their sets in person to the office of The Constitution, Alabama and Forsyth streets, or they may mail them. Sets that are mailed should be addressed to The Proverb Contest Editor, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and must bear a postmarked date not later than midnight, Monday, December 7.

11. The sets of pictures and answers, regardless of the manner in which they are prepared, or the kind of package or envelope used, when mailed required first-class postage, which is 2 cents in stamps for every picture or answer. If you are in doubt about the weight of your package or envelope and the amount of postage required, consult your postmaster. Sets that do not have sufficient postage will not be accepted.

12. Make your set as neat as possible. In the event of ties among contestants with an equal number of correct answers, neatness becomes a consideration and is, therefore, of importance.

13. We Like Visitors. "Well, everything must end, so the contest is nearing the close and I will be truly sorry. I have enjoyed it from the start. I feel I have been wonderfully helped, even if I don't win. It has been good food for the mind, which is good for us all. I have worked various puzzles, but this I can truthfully say has been the most pleasant. I would like very much to meet you and Miss Alter in person, at about 1 P. M. before the contest closes. She is a talented lady. I have three little girls—Beverly, Sara and Mary. I surely hope they will be able to draw like she can. Mrs. G. S. C. Hartwell, Ga."

14. Contest Information. Anonymous letters from contestants who ask interesting questions frequently cannot, because of limited space, be answered in this column. Contestants can only be assured of a reply when they sign their names and addresses. Only their initials will be used if their questions are answered here.

Contestants may feel free to consult the proverb editor at any time by mail, in person, or by telephoning Walnut 6565. He will gladly answer reasonable questions.

The official contest book is "Proverbs of All Ages." It includes all of the correct answers. Contestants are not asked to buy this publication, but if they desire, a copy may be had for 50 cents at the office of The Constitution—or for 54 cents by mail.

For the convenience of contestants who have lost, mislaid, soiled or mutilated any of their pictures, and those who decide to submit extra sets, an ample supply of duplicates is being kept on hand. These duplicates, printed on heavy white paper, that will take ink without blurring, are 5 cents apiece. Five cents is the individual price of the issue of The Constitution in which each picture was published. Any 5 pictures can be had for 30 cents. The price of half a set (from No. 1 to 40, inclusive) is $1.25. These back pictures are available at the office of The Constitution or by mail. Mail orders for the pictures should be accompanied by 2 cents extra for postage.

15. Ancient Pasting. Question: (1) "Will it be all right to paste two sets of pictures in the same book?" (2) How late a date may the pictures be ordered? Mrs. L. McMonticello, Ga.

Answer: (1) The P. E. prefers that you paste but one set in a book, although, if you wish, you may include

BUCHER OFFERS PLATFORM O.G.P.

University Head Compares Republicans With Whig Party of 1852.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Asserting the year 1932 "will not be a good year for shirking issues for sonorous platitudes, or for what is called pussy-footing," Nicholas Murray Butler Tuesday offered to republicans of the nation a 14-point program upon which to build their next national platform.

The Columbia University president compared the present position of the republican party to that of the whig party of 1852-56.

"It has a fine tradition, it has a splendid constituency, but just now it appears to lack both unity, capacity and courage to deal with the gravest problems of the moment and upon whose wise and forward-looking solution the prosperity and happiness of our people, and even the continuance of our form of government, may well depend," he said.

The whig party failed and the republican party was born of its failure. Let us ponder well the lesson which that happening has to teach."

Dr. Butler, in presenting his program in an address before the National Republican Club, warned that "he who tries to carry water on both shoulders may end by finding that no water has been entrusted to him to carry."

The 1932 republican national convention, he said, should offer "a program so sound and so definite that even if the masses of those who present themselves as republicans leave the party ranks, there will be tens of thousands who are not now republicans who will come in to take their place."

Briefly stated, Dr. Butler's 14-point program was:

1. Prompt and unconditional repeal of the eighteenth amendment to allow each state to deal with the liquor problem "in its own way."

2. Reconstruction and reduction of the existing tariff schedules to allow American industry, trade and transportation, maintain the standard of living, reduce unemployment and aid agriculture.

3. Cancelling the annual budget of the federal government.

He quoted figures to show "the present total indebtedness of the country is nearly one-third of the total wealth," and asserted that unless remedial measures were taken the United States might face "the same grave financial crisis as was confronting Germany and Great Britain."

4. Steady continuance of the support which has recently been given to the League of Nations, the Permanent Court of International Justice, and the Bank for International Settlements.

5. An immediate international conference to examine anew the "whole question of reparations and so-called inter-governmental war debts."

6. Immediate steps to disarmament "in order to make the practice of the civilized nations accord with the professions of their governments and with public opinion of their several peoples."

7. Submission to the states of the proposal to amend the United States constitution so as to bring a newly elected congress into session within two months of its election, instead of after an interval of 13 months as now.

8. Speedy establishment within the limits of a single year of a new primary at the instance of industry, to safeguard men and women against such risks as unemployment, illness and old age.

9. Development of publicly owned natural resources.

10. Enactment of legislation to protect the railways from competition in interstate commerce by agencies which use publicly built roads without supervision or regulation.

11. Prompt study of the whole matter of present-day industry "to enable industry to adjust itself to the new conditions."

12. Immediate calling of the international conference provided for by the act of March 3, 1907, to examine "the effects of the present severe international pressure upon the world's supply of monetary gold, and to determine whether or not an international remonetization of silver is desirable."

13. Special consideration (unspecified) for farming.

14. Curb and simplifying of the "huge, costly and wasteful bureaucracy which has grown up in Washington."

Two sets under a single cover. (2) The back picture will be kept on hand until December 7.

Three hundred young people of Georgia sat down at a banquet board Wednesday night at the First Baptist church with the governor of Georgia and a large number of well-known ministers to break spiritual and material bread in the first statewide B. Y. P. U. affair of its kind ever held.

Among the notables besides Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., were Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech; Dr. J. Ellis Sammons, president of the Georgia Baptist Convention; Carlton W. Binns, Atlanta, attorney; James W. Merritt, of Atlanta, executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention, and J. J. Whitfield, of Hawkinsville, all past presidents of the Georgia B. Y. P. U. convention.

Frank A. Hooper Jr., of Atlanta, state B. Y. P. U. president, presided as master of ceremonies and presented the speakers. Songs were led by W. A. Huey and young women of the First Baptist and the Druid Hills Baptist churches served the dinner. There were 75 pastors present in addition to a number of state and regional officers, according to Richard W. Preston, of Atlanta, state secretary of B. Y. P. U.

Governor Russell praised the work of the B. Y. P. U. and told the young people their training societies in the churches are the hope of effective work in the coming years.

Jerry E. Lambdin, of Nashville, Tenn., secretary and editor B. Y. P. U. department, delivered the principal address, which was broadcast by radio. He said: "One of the great needs facing us today is that our churches shall be more separate from the world so they may be more vital to the world."

Mr. Thibadeau was a native of Atlanta and was educated in the Donald Fraser school. He served overseas with a machine gun company and was discharged from the army with the rank of first lieutenant. Prior to becoming connected with the General Tire and Rubber Company he was with the Atlanta Title and Trust Company and the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company.

He was a Mason and a member of the Oremwood Presbyterian church. He resided at 919 Woodland avenue. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon, Bond & Condon.

Mr. Thibadeau was survived by his wife, four sons, William C. Jr., Robert M., John S. and Richard A. Thibadeau; three brothers, J. H. Thibadeau, of Orlando, Fla., and Robert and Charles Thibadeau, of Atlanta; two sisters, Miss Mary Thibadeau, of Whittier, Cal., and Mrs. W. L. McEael, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and two aunts, Miss Gussie Cobb and Miss Tony Cobb, both of Atlanta.

WET REPUBLICANS CHALLENGE FESS

Britten Leads in Demand That G. O. P. Chairman Resign Position.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Three anti-prohibitionists in the house called tonight for Senator Fess to resign as chairman of the republican national committee because of his newly-expressed stand for the eighteenth amendment.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, led the attack upon the Ohioan in a formal statement demanding that he get out as the party leader or "resign from the directorship of the Anti-Saloon League and refrain from being its spokesman."

Representatives LaGuardia, of New York, and Schafer, of Wisconsin, picked up the war-cry—aroused by the Fess reply to James W. Wadsworth, of New York, that "I shall use my influence to prevent the party from committing a fatal blunder in asking for repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Away from the furore, another movement was getting into swing to have a new chairman installed at the December meeting of the republican national committee.

This contemplates installation of Postmaster-General Brown as chairman.

While Fess has agreed to stay on until the June convention, he would willingly step out next month. However, the anti-prohibition attack seems to have forestalled any change at this time.

Also, Mr. Brown, another son of Ohio, has balked vigorously at going into the chairmanship from the cabinet.

Senator Fess declined comment on the attack upon him. It is indicated, however, he would not resign while under fire.

The Fess statement to Wadsworth, former republican senator from New York, was in reply to an appeal by Wadsworth to the republican party to sanction a platform calling for a constitutional convention on prohibition.

The Britten statement said: "If Senator Fess wishes to obstinately and unreasonably attach himself to the losing cause of prohibition in the state of Ohio, that is his business, but when he says that he will use his influential national chairmanship in the interest of a costly legislative failure which is kept on the statute books only by false propaganda of those who for years have been making a living out of prohibition, then he is deliberately destroying the very object for which he has been elected chairman."

"To oppose the wishes of millions of Americans who would give expression to their desires through the ballot box, is arrogant and bigoted as well as a show of weakness."

Representative LaGuardia said: "Senator Fess is the best asset that the democratic party has."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—House democratic leaders looked toward the fourteenth Texas district today and frowned at the spectacle of three democrats running against one republican.

They feel the division of party strength might result in the election of another republican to succeed the late Harry M. Wurzback.

"It is a democratic duty to have but one candidate," Representative Garner, of Texas, said.

Garner is his party's choice for the speakership. It looks as if he will win, but his margin is narrow and every vote is needed.

FIGHT WITHDRAWN ON SUNDAY MOVIES

Christian Council Not To Interfere, Shows Will Be Presented.

Benefit performances in Atlanta theaters, which Mayor James E. Key has approved, will be permitted Sunday without interference by the Atlanta Christian Council, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. J. Sproule Lyons, chairman of a special committee to oppose the proposal.

At the same time Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, issued a statement favoring the presentations for relief of the poor people of Atlanta. He called on Atlantans to respond most generously "to this great and needy cause."

First reports were that the Christian council would appeal to the courts in the effort to prevent the showings, but the committee Wednesday issued a statement opposing the showing, but saying they would take no drastic action at this time.

Key approved the show after the Atlanta Association of Theater Owners had agreed to turn gross receipts over to the emergency relief commission for relief of unemployment. The proposal was brought to his attention by Trammell Scott, commander of Atlanta post, No. 1, American Legion, which is sponsoring the show.

Workmen will give their services, owners will furnish their theaters and films will be donated by the Atlanta Film Exchange. All proceeds will go directly to relief of the poor.

Tickets are on sale at 60 cents each at large downtown stores, and members of the American Legion Auxiliary are selling them.

Text of the statement of the special committee from the Christian council, which was released by Dr. Lyons, follows:

"The Christian council is profoundly interested in all efforts to alleviate the suffering which is present and impending in Atlanta, and heartily supports the Community Chest and other relief organizations."

"The president's relief committee has called upon the great amusement and entertainment interests to devote the receipts of a performance toward unemployment relief, and we commend their hearty response to this appeal throughout the country."

"It is to be regretted, however, that the moving picture theaters in Atlanta are proposing to use this call, not for the purpose of devoting the income from a legitimate day of their business to this worthy end, but to precipitate a controversy by opening their houses on Sunday, in direct violation of the following city statute:

"Be it ordained by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta, as follows:

"Section 1. That from and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for the owner, or operator, or manager, or person in charge of any place of amusement, which is customarily operated for profit, such as a theater, moving picture theater, or similar place of amusement, to open their doors on Sundays for the purpose of allowing shows, concerts, moving pictures, vaudeville, or amusements of any kind therein, either for a stated price, or free, or where collections are taken at or within the doors, in the name of charity or for any purpose or in any name whatever."

Violation of Ordinance. "Section 2. That any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall, on conviction in the recorder's court, be punished by a fine not exceeding $200 or sentenced to work on the city streets for not exceeding 30 days, either or both penalties to be inflicted at the discretion of the recorder."

"Section 3. That all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed."

"There have been expressions of regret and protest that the theater interests of the city have decided not to use a day in which they have a legal and unquestioned right to operate, but have selected the one day of the week which is protected by a clear and definite city ordinance from use by the theaters; thereby inviting an action which could easily become divisive at a time when unity of spirit and effort are absolutely essential for us to meet the severe problem before us. But in view of the assurance that the mayor and constituted authorities will not condone or permit any attempt to commercialize the Sabbath, the Christian council will take no action with regard to this particular performance. However, we wish it distinctly understood that this benefit is in no wise to be interpreted as a precedent. The spirit and traditions of Atlanta are definitely opposed to a commercialized Sunday."

White's Statement.

Text of the statement issued by Councilman White follows:

"The granting of a permit for the motion picture shows to operate next Sunday, between the hours of 2 p. m. and 5 p. m. (so as not to interfere with Sunday school and church services) and the proceeds derived therefrom to go to help feed the hungry, clothe the naked, and relieve suffering in many other ways, will be a wonderful help for humanity and should receive the whole-hearted support of our people."

"I am a church man, likewise a member of the American Legion, and believe in keeping the Sabbath day holy; but if my brothers and sisters are suffering from food, clothes, etc., on the Sabbath day, it is my duty, the same as all other Christian people, to go forward and assist them and give alms."

"My church, like most all others, go out among its members on the Sabbath day and ask for them to sign pledges in money for the support of the church and missions for the maintenance and operation during the coming year. This covers lots of various organizations that we help to take care of. Likewise it is not wrong to ask of those that can give on the Sabbath day what they can to operate something that the entire amount of proceeds will be used for relieving our sick, hungry and naked, and I certainly hope our people will respond most generously to this great and needy cause."

FARM BOARD PROBE PLANNED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Governor Murray, of Oklahoma, and others who have made charges against the farm board can appear before the senate agriculture committee November 24.

Chairman McNary said today the committee will conduct a "wide-open" investigation of the board and charges against it. He sent a telegram to the Oklahoma governor inviting him to testify.

Murray, in letters to state governors and members of congress, has said the board has been actually holding the big surplus of wheat and cotton it was supposed to have, but instead had turned these holdings over to millers and spinners in competition with the farmers' products.

Soviet Women Slowly Acquiring Dress Parity With Sisters Abroad

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of four articles on woman's new eminence in Soviet Russia.)

BY STANLEY P. RICHARDSON.
(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press.)
MOSCOW, Nov. 18.—Women of Soviet Russia no longer may be said to be silk stockings.

Although silk stockings still are difficult to obtain, and continue to be the most sought after article of clothing, they nevertheless are available at a price. That this is true is evidence of the fact that women of the proletarian state slowly but surely are dressing better.

It would be erroneous to say they have reached the stage where an American would call them style-conscious. But signs are appearing that almost prohibitive prices are gradually being enabled to devote more attention to this phase of their life.

A year ago the well-dressed woman encountered in the street or at the theater either was a foreigner or one of the few fortunate natives who had friends to bring them clothing from abroad; now one frequently meets well-tailored Russian women, although they are far in the minority.

Officially, fashions as they are known to their sisters abroad, have no place in the lives of present-day Russians. Since the revolution, materials and money have been too scarce. Besides, the good communist scorned such "bourgeois" manifestations, holding that the women of new Russia have no time for such frills. There are no fashion magazines, no newspaper advertisements depicting the latest modes.

But the feminine thirst for better clothing is indicated in the crowds which storm the stores devoted to such articles and await their turn to buy. The quickening of production of commodities designed to provide higher living standards and the earning power of the women workers are factors. New stores are opening. One in Moscow features the most fashionable goods in Russia today—copies of ancient Paris and New York modes for which almost prohibitive prices are asked.

The other stores handle articles which elsewhere would be considered the plainest. But to Russian women who for years have had nothing but the roughest, simplest garments, they represent the height of luxury.

Stockings, called "silk," but most of which in reality are the artificial variety, can be bought when they are available for 18 rubles (about $9) upward. The coarser kinds sell for 1 ruble. Hats bring from 10 rubles for the poorest to 60 for the best; shoes

Seal Leaves Sea Home, Enters House for Food

NEWPORT BEACH, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Surprised when he heard the crash of glass, George P. Belcher looked out and saw a dark form crawling through a window of his neighbor's cottage. He notified police.

Officers found a grown seal rummaging among the pots and pans of the neighbor's kitchen, apparently looking for food. The seal was escorted back to the surf and released on probation.

Seas Guard Gold.

BREST, France, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Heavy seas made it impossible today for divers to take any of the $5,000,000 in gold from the bulk of the sunken liner Egypt, off the coast not far from here, and salvage operations which have been going on for several months were interrupted until the weather improves.

13.40 to 58; gloves 12.50 to 30; dresses 7.75 to 200 and coats from 30 to 250.

The quality of the best of such articles is about equal to the cheapest grades of corresponding merchandise in other countries. Furs are an exception, but the country which produces more than any other in the world exports most of them and thus home prices are exorbitant.

Emory University's Glee Club To Present 'Burleska' Tonight

Emory University's Glee Club will stage a variety show, "Burleska," at the University auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight. The show also will be presented Friday night.

The performance, under the direction of Billy Hunter, glee club president, will feature singing, dancing, dialog, and burlesque numbers by the members of the glee club and other university talent.

A burlesque performance of parts of the Gilbert and Sullivan light opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be the headliner of the show. This presentation will combine the best voices in the glee club with the best that the student body can offer in vaudeville entertainment.

A singing chorus and ballet will supplement the work of several comedians, including George Carroll and Dan Hanks, two veteran amateur performers.

Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, director of the glee club and orchestra, has predicted that the singing in the vocal portions of the program will be up to the standard that has long been the basis of the glee club's high reputation for ensemble singing.

Phil Robertson will present "Xylomania," a musical and comical sketch with the xylophone. Chester Kitchings, noted performer in many Atlanta amateur shows, will play the musical saw and a variety of other instruments, including the singing cigar box.

George Carroll, assisted by Dan Hanks, will preside over the entire show as master of ceremonies.

Ben Blinov, leader of the first basses in the glee club, will sing several native Russian songs in costume. Larry Chaffee, first tenor and leader of the Emory quartet, will lead the singing of the "Monks' Quartet," and he is also billed to sing a group of solos.

Ben Warren will present a skit called "Reveries of a Bachelor." He will be accompanied by the orchestra. Several students will take part in a burlesque dance number.

Tickets can be obtained from Bob MacDonell, manager of the glee club, in the glee club office at Emory. The first price is 50 cents.

Homesick English Girl Will Sail Home Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Miss Rosemary Pamela Gilding, young daughter of a London banker, who disappeared from the home of Professor Hamilton C. MacDonnell, of Wellesley, on Saturday, was found yesterday in Springfield, Mass., will sail for England tomorrow.

COAL LEADERS SEEK CURE FOR DEPRESSION

Interstate Committee Diagnosing Industry's Economic Ailments.

BY JOHN M. DUNN.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The nation's bituminous coal leaders, hopeful of injecting new life blood into the economic structure of their ailing industry, looked with expectancy tonight to an interstate committee of fuel experts charged with the duty of diagnosing the case and pointing the way to recovery.

The five-state body was named today by Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, at the direction of the third international conference on bituminous coal, over which he is presiding.

On the committee are C. E. Lawall, director of the school of mines at West Virginia University; F. R. Stearns, coal operator of Stearns, Ky.; James Berry, chief of the division of mining of the state of Ohio; Walter H. Glasgow, state secretary of mines for Pennsylvania, and J. J.

ITALY SLAPS BIG FINE ON ILLEGAL BEVERAGE

TRAPANI, Sicily, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Determined to wipe out illegal manufacture of wine, fascist authorities today made an example of 14 offenders and sentenced them to pay fines aggregating $2,278,000, as well as imposing 14 months imprisonment on each.

The offenders were convicted in a criminal court of operating a secret plant as an annex to one of the principal wine-producing companies in Marsala, famous wine region, in an effort to evade taxation.

Rutledge, chief manager of the Maryland bureau of mines.

From many of the 1,000 delegates to the conference, and from outside sources, the committee at once began receiving suggestions for stabilization and will meet tomorrow to study the various proposals in an effort to select from them a practical plan for the rehabilitation of the industry, which for 12 years admittedly has been going from bad to worse.

SWEDEN'S CONTROL OF LIQUOR PRAISED

Woman Writer Tells of Benefits Resulting to People in Northern Country.

Prefacing her remarks with the statement that "every day brings more evidence that we soon will have to take a stand for or against prohibition," Mrs. Mildred Seydel, Atlanta newspaper woman, Wednesday outlined the system of liquor control in Sweden at the bi-weekly gathering of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club.

Mrs. Seydel recently returned from a visit to Stockholm and other cities of Sweden where she made an investigation of the Swedish system of liquor distribution, which has been acclaimed widely by proponents of government control of alcoholic beverages as opposed to prohibition.

The speaker explained the use of the family card for obtaining liquor for home use and the system of controlled drinking in public places. "The closing of saloons in Sweden did not give rise to bootlegging and speakeasies," Mrs. Seydel said. "This was prevented through reopening of the saloons as people's restaurants, where liquor could be had with meals in moderate quantity and at such hours where it would not interfere with the day's work."

The backbone of the system is the government granted and controlled monopolies for distribution of hard liquors with all attempts at big profits in the liquor business discouraged and actually prevented, the speaker explained.

Mrs. Seydel stated that her investigation showed that since 1917, when the present system was instituted, Sweden has experienced less drinking, fewer drunkards, less crime and fewer prisoners, "in contrast to the effects of prohibition in this country."

STERCHI'S NEW STORE OPENS THIS MORNING

All is in readiness for the opening this morning of the new Sterchi store, at 116 Whitehall street, the northern half of the building formerly occupied by the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuRose Company.

The doors of the establishment will be thrown open promptly at 9 o'clock, at which time prayer will be offered by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church. Arrangements have been made to accommodate a large crowd.

Music will be furnished at three periods during the day, morning, afternoon and evening, by the Fox theater orchestra under the direction of Enrico Leide. The store is presenting the orchestra in the concert through the courtesy of the Fox theater.

POWER COMPANY SUED BY DECATUR

For the third time since 1928 the city of Decatur Wednesday took legal action in an effort to collect $13,444.66 from the Georgia Power Company for paying on East Ponce de Leon avenue between the rail and two feet on each side of street car lines there. A plea in equity was filed in Fulton superior court.

The plea names the Georgia Power Company, the Georgia Railway and Power Company, and the Georgia Railway & Electric Company as defendants.

The paving was laid in 1926 and the company has refused to pay the bill, it is charged. A second suit was filed in the city of Decatur but the decision was reversed by the supreme court. A second suit was tried in the DeKalb superior court with the favor again for the city and again the matter was reversed by the supreme court. The latest action was taken by the firm of Branch & Howard, attorneys for the city of Decatur.

RAILROAD REDUCES CHRISTMAS FARES

Reduced fares for Christmas have been authorized by the Seaboard, it is announced by Fred Geissler, general passenger agent. One and one-third fares will be good for a round trip, the announcement says, and tickets will go on sale December 16 with return limit extending to January 6.

OFFICERS GRAZE DEATH IN BATTLE WITH NEGRO

Two county policemen narrowly escaped death late Tuesday night in arresting a negro who died Wednesday morning at Grady hospital from pistol wounds inflicted during the arrest, it was revealed Wednesday in official reports of the county police department.

Lieutenant J. M. Carroll and Officer Ernest P. Hornsby answered a call to Hightower road and Simpson street, where it was reported a negro woman had been shot. On arriving there a negro, Edward Crowley, stepped from the darkness beside a house and fired a pistol at close range at Lieutenant Carroll. The lieutenant unharmed the negro, who fled into the darkness.

Bloodhounds were placed on the negro's trail and Hornsby found him in some woods about half a mile away. The negro then charged Hornsby with a knife, it was said, and Hornsby fired, mortally wounding him.

OFFICIALS INDICTED IN FAILURE OF BANK

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 18.—(AP) John Mitchell, former chief state bank examiner, and the three members of the state corporation commission were indicted by a Blount county grand jury here today on charges of conspiracy to permit banks known to be insolvent to remain open.

Members of the corporation commission are W. T. Lee, George P. Pell and Stanley Winborne.

The one bill of indictment contained three counts. The first charges "conspiracy in permitting insolvent banks to remain open."

The second count charges the four men with "permitting the Central Bank & Trust Company of Asheville to remain open after they knew it to be insolvent."

The third count charges the four with permitting the Biltmore-Oteen bank to remain open after they knew it to be insolvent.

Both banks closed last November.

Prisoner Released To Care for Family

Pre-holiday mercy was recorded at the state capital Wednesday when Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. paroled Clark Brown, serving a four-year sentence imposed by a Coweta county court on a felony charge.

"The parole is granted," the governor explained, "because the prosecuting officials say the penalty was too severe and because the care of the defendant is required for a motherless child and an invalid mother."

JAPAN BEARDS THE BEAR.

News of the capture of Tsitsihar, capital of Heilungkiang, province of Manchuria, by Japanese troops marks the first entrance by a Japanese army into territory dominated by Russia. The fall of this key town is therefore fraught with far greater significance than if it meant nothing more than merely another Chinese defeat.

So far the fighting on the Nonni river has been along the line of the Chinese-controlled, but Japanese-mortgaged, railroad, the northern terminus of which is Tsitsihar. So long as that situation existed Russia has seen fit to content herself with merely admonishing Japan not to let her troops advance too far toward Russian territory.

Tsitsihar is one of the strategic points on the link between the Siberian border and Harbin, chief city of Manchuria, of the Russian-controlled Chinese Eastern railroad.

With the Japanese in Tsitsihar they could, if they desired, effectively cut off Russia from the richest part of the territory over which she has held sway.

The present controversy between China and Japan is based on the desire for economic dominance, with control of the railroad systems of the country.

There are now three railroad systems in this rich Asiatic territory—one dominated by the Japanese, another by the Russians and still another by the Chinese. The present controversy between China and Japan, which finds Russia lurking in the background, is in the last analysis a struggle for the control of these railroads, with the economic dominance which would follow.

The struggle for the control of Manchuria through its railroads goes back to 1905 when the complete dominance which had been established by Russia constituted a threat to Korea and Japan, which culminated in the Russo-Japanese war.

At that time the Chinese Eastern railroad ran from the Trans-Siberian railroad, which it tapped at a point northwest of Tsitsihar, through the heart of Manchuria to Port Arthur on the Yellow sea. As the result of its conflict with Japan, however, Russia was forced to relinquish to her conqueror that portion of the road running from Changchun, through Mukden, the capital, to the sea. Thus was established separate territories of influence, with Russia predominating in the northern and larger portion of the country, and Japan in the southern but far more valuable section.

In addition to the rebuilding of the main line of the South Manchurian, Japan has built lateral roads tapping rich agricultural and mining sections, and is now connecting a new trunk line which will extend to the Korean border, giving a new outlet to the sea for export of Manchurian products.

The nationalist government of China proper, realizing that without railroads of their own the Chinese could never expect to regain control of the province, took up the building of a system of its own, paradoxically borrowing most of the money to do so from Japan and Russia, through the latter alleges misrepresentation of its purpose.

Now Japan says the new roads being projected by the Chinese are for the purpose of stifling the South Manchurian railroad and its branches, contrary to the treaties under which she has invested more than a billion dollars in their development. China counters with the claim that the treaties were illegally obtained.

When raids were made on the property of the Japanese-owned road by Chinese soldiers, Japan struck back, chasing the Chinese government out of Mukden and following its retreating army to the point where it has entered Russian territory.

Now the question is as to what Russia will do following the sudden move of Japan in cutting the main line of the Chinese Eastern railroad as the result of a circling movement which carried it beyond and behind Harbin, the center of Russian influence in the territory.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.
Reports of general business improvement and increase in employment in the west as the result of the rise in the price of wheat emphasize the vital importance to the south of the deliberations of the cotton conference at Jackson next week.

Market reactions following the recent New Orleans meeting show conclusively that the adoption of a practical acreage reduction plan by the cotton-growing states generally will result in an immediate upward trend in cotton prices. It is just as certain that without such concerted action no material increases may be expected.

Manufacturers' associations in the wheat belt report constantly increasing pay rolls since higher returns for grains have resuscitated farmers' bank rolls, with an accompanying increase in wholesale and retail trade.

Significant of the renewed buying power of the people of these states are the reports telling of a sudden boom in the jewelry trade in the larger cities and the noticeable awakening in orders for Christmas goods.

Thus almost over night have the effects of the depression begun to disappear, the improved condition of the wheat growers having spread rapidly through commercial and manufacturing circles.

If the Jackson conference evolves an acreage reduction plan which will be acceptable to all the cotton-growing states, the price of cotton will begin climbing even before the formal working out of the plan. With each advance of two points adding approximately a million dollars to the value of this year's bumper crop, any material price advance would tremendously increase the amount of money in circulation in the south.

If a general plan for acreage reduction is to be adopted, no time must be lost, because the farmers must soon begin laying plans and making ready for next year's planting.

Unquestionably the conference is of vital importance to the general welfare of the south, and it is hoped that the agricultural, financial and commercial leaders who will attend will be able to work out a practicable plan which will be acceptable to all the cotton-growing states.

Now the Russian Bear is backed up with the alternative of facing up to his recent growls or else keeping quiet.

What wheat has done for business in the west, cotton can do for the south—if we will just get together.

That four-inch downpour in Oklahoma could be used in Georgia in broken doses.

What we should learn is that this is no day and time to economize—especially in articles made of cotton.

When the report of the capture of a "notorious" robber is broadcast it means that either the police have been remiss in not detecting him sooner, or that justice has been too blind.

The way Georgia boys and girls are winning national farm honors it begins to appear that they know more about farming than do their elders.

With depression worries, the tariff and erupting insurgents this is no day and time for fond parents to murmur over their male offspring, "He may be president!"

If the country was just as dry in other ways as it is for lack of heaven-sent moisture, even our most ardent Volsteadites would no doubt be satisfied.

The contrast in the battle-death list, as between the Japs and the Chinese, tells the story of the military ability of the combatants who are now at grips in Manchuria.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Manchurian Imbroglio.

Whatever may be the upshot of the incidents between Japanese troops and Chinese battalions, this much is quite certain, Japan is trying desperately to extend her position on the Asiatic mainland and if she fails this time, she will come again at some future time. Manchuria, the granary of the far east, has been the bone of contention between Russia and Japan for decades, but China manages to hold on to it through all vicissitudes. The Russo-Japanese war put an end to Russia's attempts at capture, and thereafter it was the Anglo-Japanese alliance which blocked Moscow. Japan is balked by the fact that the land and the real estate in Manchurian provinces are held by Chinese and even in cities occupied by the Japanese for several years, the Chinaman stays on top.

John Chinaman is not easily intimidated by the sight of soldiers. He goes his way unperturbed, cultivates his garden and sells his produce. A million new Chinese settlers swarm into Manchuria each year. Insofar as trade is concerned the Chinaman has both the Russian and the Japanese backed off the map. He is supreme even if the soldiers of various nations walk about.

James G. Hall, first lieutenant, medical corps, attached to the 360th Infantry, Ninetieth division, American expeditionary force, awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action with the enemy near Montauville, France, September 12 to 15, 1918.

In spite of his severe wounds, including two broken ribs, received on the first day of the action, he continued at his post for three days, administering aid to the wounded throughout the combat, unmindful of his own painfully serious condition. Numbers of lives were saved by this gallant officer's heroic devotion to duty through self-sacrifice.

Japanese Minister of War Tells Of Nippon's Stand in Manchuria

Editor's Note: Minister of War Jiro Minami, of Japan, has written the following article for The Associated Press, explaining the Japanese position in the Manchurian conflict. It follows a similar story from Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang giving the Chinese version.

TOKYO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—China is attempting to carry out her national policy by trampling upon existing treaties with Japan.

Japan has no intention of developing the present trouble, but has been forced to take the necessary steps to protect Japanese interests in Manchuria, including the Taonan-Anganchi railroad which was built with Japanese loans but with the Chinese defaulting on the debt.

The clashes of Japanese and Chinese at Tashing were due entirely to the Japanese demand on the part of the Chinese. Why are the powers maintaining troops in China? Why do the powers still have extrajurisdiction rights in China?

There was no other way out for Japan.

forced again to sign the notorious 21 points of 1915.

These points, alleged by China to have been advanced while the rest of the world was occupied with the war, concerned the disposition of Shanghai; railway leasing privileges for Japan in South Manchuria and in the province of Mongolia; the joint administration of certain districts, and other matters interpreted by the Chinese as violations of their sovereignty.

Dr. Sze informed the council China is ready to invoke Article 15 of the League covenant and would insist that the peace negotiations be held under the League covenant, the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty.

Article 15 provides for the publication of the facts of any dispute, together with the League's recommendations. It also provides for referring any dispute to the League assembly. It is the last step before economic and military sanctions.

United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, in Paris as an "observer" of the council meeting, tonight became potentially one of the most important figures in the League's negotiations regarding the dispute in Manchuria.

TOKYO DENIES REPORTED NEW JAPANESE DEMANDS

(AP)—Official quarters denied today reports from Paris that Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, had presented new demands to the League of Nations, which amounted to a policy to convert Manchuria into a political and economic protectorate of Japan.

JAPANESE ARMY BELIEVED TO HAVE SEIZED TSITSIHAR

(Copyright, 1931, for The Associated Press.)

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Japanese army was believed to have seized Tsitsihar tonight after a day of desperate fighting, and sent General Ma Chuan-shan's Chinese troops fleeing in rout.

The Japanese conquered an army 10 times their strength. They advanced more than 18 miles, but in the process the battle line they encountered the best resistance a Chinese force has put up in recent years.

At the end of the battle—the greatest engagement since the Manchurian conflict started last September—the Japanese were well above the Chinese Eastern railway and squarely in the zone of Russian influence.

Ma Chuan-shan's forces appeared to be so effectively shattered as to have no chance of further resistance. So Japan seemed assured of maintaining her position in Tsitsihar, capital of the northern province of Heilungkiang.

The only threat was Russia.

Today's battle was fought in bitter cold. The temperature was as low as 15 degrees below zero and the Japanese advanced at a gale sweeping from the north out of Siberia.

About 4,000 Japanese troops took part in the action. They turned General Chan-shan's 10,000 to 15,000 men into a rabble, fleeing across the Heilungkiang plains to get away from an assault carried forward with all the precision of a modern military machine.

The casualties remained undetermined tonight, but dispatches agreed that on both sides they were heavy.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

(Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 18.—The picture revolution goes on with increased fury and most interesting developments from day to day. So intense is the pressure from financiers and exhibitors to prevent the occurrence in studios today in a manner unheard of before.

Prices advertised for stories, salaries, purely of the psychological nature, and are as inflated as a soufflé. Reduce everything by half and then divided it by a three, so far as literary value is concerned, and it happens to be a successful play or established book.

Fur flying about Radio-Pathe merged lists continues. The authoritative Mr. David O. Selznick seems to be holding his own, although rumors to the effect that his wings would be clipped have been rife for several days now.

A general panic among players has taken a good many names off leaves on Beverly Hills houses and into modest apartments where the exit may be arranged from month to month, in the event of catastrophe.

Actors accustomed to earning from $500 a week to $1,000 and over, are now accepting "atmosphere" parts in between regular jobs and thereby increasing the income from $15 to $35 a day. Of course the work is done with the understanding that the regular salary will be paid them for all walking parts of the year. It's merely a protective measure.

Constance Bennett held up progress on her picture which Edward H. Griffith is directing when she was bed with a cold. The day Constance Bennett and the Marquis De La Fayette got their marriage license, Griffith told me she had more of a considerable amount of his role in the film.

But the necessity for finishing pictures on schedule has been the cause of a great deal of unhappiness. Griffith told me that La Fayette will not marry until "Lady With a Past" is completed—even to retakes.

A brown flannel tailor suit topped by a small hat with a small brown hat of this type made her one of the stars of the season. The Embassy Club recently. There were several trick numbers on the heads of reigning beauties, however. But they were not the only ones.

She's gone British, what with her first big success. But she's getting all mixed up on her head.

"I drank too much brandy last night," she told me, "and, after all, it's no use in that."

The "after" was flat A'd to a farewell.

SMOOT ADVOCATES
HIGHER EXCISE TAXAdministration Leader
Also Urges Income Levy
Hike in Higher Brackets

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The administration's tax program was reflected today in a declaration by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee for increased rates on incomes and new excise levies.

Smoot, who is the administration's spokesman on revenue legislation, proposed raises in all the income brackets to a maximum of 40 per cent on incomes over $100,000.

He advocated also a broad system of sales or excise taxes applying on so-called luxury commodities. He mentioned automobiles and radios among the articles to be included.

The Smoot program differs somewhat from that of the republican independents and democrats, who would concentrate on the big incomes and inheritance taxes, but, if not all of the new revenue, with congress almost evenly divided, a compromise seems inevitable. This probably will include increased estate tax rates and, if any, new excise levies.

Smoot estimated $1,200,000,000 must be raised by new taxation next year. This is the highest figure mentioned so far.

A proposal of Representative Bachrach, republican, New Jersey, included a raise in the inheritance tax. Bachrach is an administration leader in the house.

The estate tax for the fiscal year 1930 amounted to $64,769,625 and for the fiscal year 1931, to $48,678,326. The rate varies from 1 per cent of the amount of net estate not over $50,000 to 20 per cent of the amount of net estate above $10,000,000.

In the excise class in 1931, automobiles and motorcycles brought in $23,981,268; jewelry, imitation jewelry, etc., $22,422,365; sporting goods, etc., $21,154; cosmetics, $1,413,455, and player pianos, gramophones, etc., $1,426,855.

R. R. Otis To Attend
Hoover Conference

Robert R. Otis, Atlanta realtor, has been invited by President Hoover to attend a meeting of the president's conference on home-building and home ownership in Washington on December 2-5.

Announcement of the invitation was made Wednesday at the luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Real Estate Board at the Henry Grady hotel. The board adopted resolutions commending President Hoover's plan and calling on the Georgia representatives to back it, and wire its commendation to the president.

Alvin B. Cates, president of the board, and Ward Wight also will attend the conference, having been designated by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

WALSH APPOINTED
CHICAGO CORONER

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Frank J. Walsh, former criminal court clerk, was appointed Cook county coroner late yesterday to succeed Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who resigned.

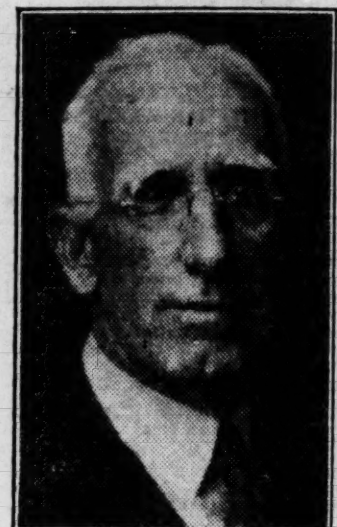

Dr. Bundesen will devote his time to the post of the city health commission, an office he formerly held in conjunction with the coronership.

000 to 20 per cent of the amount of net estate above $10,000,000.

From the time the red fezzes of the Savannah Shriners begin to color the streets until late tonight, additional caravans will arrive almost hourly. Atlanta will take on a festive air with stores and buildings decorated in honor of the occasion.

With the Savannahs will be Mayor Thomas M. Hoynes, Potentate O. P. Fulmer, J. J. Cornell, A. E. Solms, O. E. Bright, F. C. Bush, R. E. Banks, George W. Hunt, George M. Sanders, T. M. Hoynes, W. S. McFeely, C. L. Maxwell, E. F. Harfield and Henry Brown. Other nobles from Waycross, Valdosta and Augusta will join the delegation here at the Piedmont hotel headquarters.

Yanrah To Meet Train.

Nobles from Yanrah Temple, of Atlanta, will form delegations to meet incoming trains and extend the fraternal hand of welcome. Potentate Richard N. Fickett Jr. has ordered all Shriners of the Atlanta assembly to make every effort to entertain the visitors royally in this hospitable oasis.

The Savannah delegation will be one of the most colorful of visiting caravans, and Atlantans will have opportunity to see the trappings of the Albee patrol, hear the music of the big band and to meet a number of past potentates.

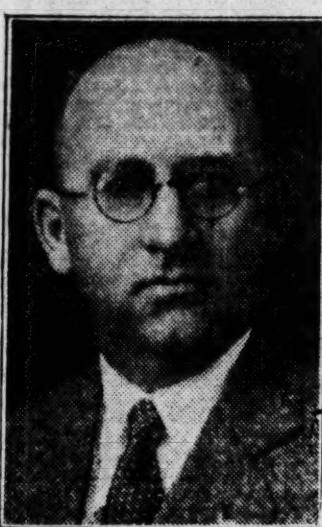

Close behind the Savannah group will be the arrival at noon of Shriners from Zamora Temple, Birmingham, when Potentate Watts will lead his divan, patrol, band, a number of past potentates and a large body of nobles and ladies from the special train to downtown Atlanta.

Other caravans arriving during the morning will be those from Chattanooga, Tampa, Miami and smaller delegations from numerous other cities in the south.

To Go to Hotels.

Immediately upon their arrival the various caravans will be escorted to their hotels. All Atlanta nobles who can supply automobiles are requested to communicate with Noble Harry Burns, HE4606 4076.

Night will bring more color to the convales and downtown hotels will resound with the music of bands and hearty greetings. A dance in the Egyptian ballroom of the Shrine mosque, beginning at 9 o'clock, will conclude the events of the first day. Friday morning at 11 o'clock the official parade will form under the direction of Noble Charles Cox at the mosque and march down Peachtree to Forsyth, to Mitchell, to Whitehall, back to Peachtree and through Five Points, thence out Edgewood to Gilmer and the city auditorium. Potentate Fickett requested all nobles of Yanrah temple to assemble with the uniform unit at the mosque and march in the parade.

Barbecue on Schedule.

Barbecue, nearly always a feature of southern Shrine affairs, will be served to the nobles at 12:30 Friday afternoon at the auditorium and the afternoon will be given over to automobile rides. At 5:30 o'clock a buffet supper will be served in the banquet hall of the mosque.

The ceremonial at the convention will begin in the mosque auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Friday night and will be under direction of a divan of officers especially arranged for the event. Past Potentate W. Bayne Griggs will preside, with Past Potentate Roy Mather acting as rabban. Others assisting will be DeWald Cohen, Hiram H. Romans, Byron L. Milling, Walter Bryant, Roy Morrison, F. E. Van der Veer, Frank Luckhart, Wadley Clean and N. Baxter Maddox. Visitors of note will be introduced to Past Potentate Tom C. Law, followed by the initiation of the candidates who will come with the visiting nobles.

Atlanta Shrine officials said the event will be the most interesting of its kind ever held in Atlanta.

JERSEY OFFICIALS
HIT BY DRY AGENTPennington Blames Officials for Failure To Enforce Law in State.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 18.—(AP)—

Commander John D. Pennington, administrator of the third prohibition district, blames public officials of New Jersey for failure to enforce the prohibition laws in that state.

Addressing the Citizens' Federation of New Jersey for temperance and law enforcement, Commander Pennington, who is in charge of prohibition in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, said Camden is one of the most temperate cities in his district, while Philadelphia is one of the cleanest, due to the efforts of Director of Public Safety Schiefel.

The laxity with which the eighth amendment is enforced in the state, he said, can be attributed directly to the presence of attorneys who represent illegal traffickers. "If what I have to say of New Jersey is treason, here, they may shoot when ready and make the most of it," said Pennington.

In attacking public officials who, he said, at the same time represent the breweries, racketeers and gangsters, Pennington said: "I question the ethics of the legal profession. I am not prohibited at the tax on treatment of prohibition when we consider that in New Jersey, Walter Bacon, the assistant attorney general, is the attorney for a Camden brewery."

And Congressman Benjamin Goldner, a lawyer of Philadelphia, represents nearly all men arrested on narcotic and bootlegging charges in this entire area. Mr. Schiefel, director of public safety in Philadelphia, is driving racketeers and their ilk from that city to Camden—where they are welcome.

"I have an average of 100 letters this month from residents of Camden complaining about conditions, asking me to do the work of your prosecutor and police. However, the federal government is not a village cop."

Commander Pennington declared that without the influence of public officials, the late Mickey Duffy, murdered racketeer, could not have attempted to monopolize all transportation in New Jersey except the railroads "for his nefarious schemes."

LINDBERGH DELAYS
HOP AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, en route to Miami, from where he will pilot the American Clipper on the big amphibian's first commercial flight, stopped here to spend the night.

Arriving at 4:30 o'clock in an army observation plane, the noted flyer said that he was a little tired and that combined with reports of fog from Greensboro south made him decide to stop over here. He said he had borrowed the army ship at Mitchell field because his own was not equipped with landing flares, which would have been needed if he had gone on through to Miami.

SPANISH GOVERNMENT
FLOODED WITH GUNS

MADRID, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Spanish hunters are turning in their shotguns and rifles to the police, fearful of the penalties in a new decree forbidding private ownership of such weapons.

Bank guards, watchmen and former militiamen also are sending in large quantities of arms. Police said 472 guns, most of them issued during the republican revolt, have been received in the last three days.

Firearms factories were reported to be facing a crisis.

LOAN EXPECTED FOR TENNESSEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—After a series of conferences with New York bankers, Tennessee state officials were hopeful tonight that negotiations had progressed to such a point that they would be successful in effecting the $10,000,000 loan they seek.

Ernest M. Haston, Tennessee's secretary of state, said before leaving for home that, although the outlook in New York had been somewhat discouraging, he believed funds necessary to meet a renewal of state loans for $5,000,000 due December 1, together with an additional $5,000,000 to cover the balance of the state deficit, would be forthcoming.

Secretary of State Haston, emphatically declared that "Tennessee will not default on its obligations" and that a renewal of the imminent maturity loans and the additional loan desired would be thoroughly guaranteed.

South Georgia Methodists Rallied to Dry Standard

Church Must Be Unyielding in Support of Amendment, Says Cox.

BY MARK TEMPLE.

(Associated Press Staff Writer.) SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Prohibition has reached the stage where the church must take a definite and unyielding stand, and that stand must be in support of the eighteenth amendment, Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory University, told delegates to the South Georgia conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, here today.

The liquor question presents the greatest moral issue of the times, Dr. Cox said, and the church must prepare to fight it intelligently and fairly.

The fight cannot be based on sentiment alone, he declared. It must be waged from the scientific standpoint, and arguments against alcohol must have the backing of cold facts which, he said, favor the prohibition cause at every turn.

Alcohol was described as a poison from which many physical and mental afflictions are directly traceable. It lowers resistance to fatigue and disease, Dr. Cox declared, and poisons the nervous system to the point of destroying physical control, with a resultant loss in human effectiveness.

Dr. Cox also said that alcohol poisons the mind, and affects keenness of judgment and the perceptive sense, and in that way "exerts its greatest menace, because when a man loses control over his instincts, society will suffer."

The meeting was held today while Bishop Nolan M. Moore, presiding officer of the conference, and his cabinet considered appointments and other matters of importance to the Methodist church.

Bishop Moore opened the conference this morning with an address in which he declared that modern life created a need for stronger gospel. After his talk considerable routine business was disposed of, after which the resignation of the Rev. J. M. Williams, of Rochelle, who is under indictment for the alleged murder of his son.

Mr. Williams recently was tried on the charge in Augusta, a mistrial resulting. His resignation was presented by Rev. J. C. G. Brooks, presiding elder of the Middle District, in which Mr. Williams was stationed. The resignation was accepted without discussion.

Dr. Dice R. Anderson, president of Wesleyan College, Macon, was elected to the board of Christian education in place of the late Rev. O. S. Wilson, of Swainsboro, who was killed in an automobile accident yesterday while en route to the conference. Earlier in the day Dr. Anderson discussed Wesleyan College, and urged southern Methodism to accord it sufficient support to make it the greatest in the country.

Tonight's program included a meeting of the board of Christian education with Dr. Anderson and Dr. W. F. Quillian, secretary of the general board of that name, delivering addresses.

Dr. Quillian, who served as president of Wesleyan College, Macon, for 11 years prior to taking up his present work, said that all education "worthy of the name" had been in some way associated with religion.

The greatest learning has come from religious books, he said, and the great movements of history have been the outgrowth of desire for freedom of thought as well as life.

Education as sponsored by the Methodist church is centered in the home, the church and the school, he said, adding that an attempt was being made to encourage "straight thinking, which leads to straight living."

The church, the home and Christian civilization has come through sacrificial leadership of the scholars of ages gone, he said.

ROME, Ga., Nov. 18.—Workers of the Community Chest here Tuesday reported that a total of $14,500 had been raised in the day of the $21,500 goal. With one more day in which to work, the committee is said to be confident that the full quota will be reached.

WHEN YOU OVER-INDULGE

There are times when we all are tempted to take a holiday from the usual prudence.

Where is the person who wants to be discreet in diet every day in the year? It isn't human! And it isn't necessary!

Your stomach won't be poisoned by every little indiscretion if you will just remember to give it the friendly aid of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It will sweeten the sour system and put things to rights.

Suppose you do overload your stomach with those things that bring on acidity? Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will neutralize many times its volume in acid. Just take two spoonfuls before and after such over-indulgence. It's a very simple way to prevent those miserable mornings which follow too much to eat and drink.

When you over-indulge—eating, drinking, smoking—don't suffer for hours! Nature will restore a proper alkaline balance in time, but Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts immediately. A creamy, pleasant-tasting emulsion that sweetens the stomach, dispels that sour gas, and relieves the nausea and headache, and feeling of biliousness due to overindulgence. (Phillips' mild laxative properties always help the bowels at such times.)

Make sure it's genuine. The signature of Chas. H. Phillips on the wrapper and bottle will tell you it's the real product endorsed by the medical profession. Less perfect preparations do not act the same.

For a Healthy Mouth Use Phillips' Milk of Magnesia as a mouthwash every evening before retiring. Use Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste, to keep the teeth clean and white.

MANCHESTER HEARS THIRD DATE OF DEATH

Alleged Slayer of Parks Again Sentenced to Die in Chair December 4.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Earl Manchester, Michigan youth, this morning was doomed to die in the electric chair at the state prison farm, Milledgeville, December 4, for the murder of James W. Parks, young Hapeville printer.

Manchester heard the sentence calmly, and later returned to Bibb county jail, apparently unmoved. He had no statement to make in regard to further plans in his fight for life.

R. Douglas Feagin, who was named by the court to defend Manchester, made vigorous protest to sentencing of his client, while the companion case of Mrs. Sara Elizabeth Powers, 73, is still pending on an appeal to save the state supreme court. This protest was disregarded by Judge Malcolm D. Jones, who imposed the sentence.

It was the third time, court officials said, that Manchester has heard the sentence of death passed upon him. The first time was in June, 1929, when he was first convicted and sentenced to life in prison as the actual slayer of Parks in an insurance plot, alleged to have been fostered by Mrs. Powers, former wife of the slain printer.

The subsequent sentences were pronounced when Manchester lost moves in his fight for life carried on in the Georgia supreme court. A respite was granted by Judge Russell several months ago at the request of the state prison commission, which asked for more time to consider a plea for commutation of sentence. The respite expired September 28.

Only the interference of the governor could save the youth from the chair, it was stated.

FLOYD BOARD MAKES DRASTIC SALARY CUTS

Action Necessary To Overcome Deficit, Commissioners Decide.

ROME, Ga., Nov. 18.—Continuing their program to cut county expenses, the Floyd county board of roads and revenue Wednesday made drastic cuts in the salaries of various employees and also served notice on the warden and all guards that the county chain gang would be abolished January 1.

Notice was also served on all merchants who have been supplying the chain gang that the county would not be responsible for any debts made after the first of the year for the chain gang.

A reply was received from the state prison commission to the notice of the abolishment of the Floyd chain gang stating that they would take over all felony convicts on January 1, but would be unable to remove any misdemeanors and suggested that the Floyd county board find some other county which would take the prisoners.

County Attorney Graham Wright advised the board that it was entirely within its rights in demanding the removal of both felony and misdemeanor convicts and stated the state prison commission would be forced to take all convicts from the county "on conviction."

Cuts of 10 per cent were made in the salaries of Superintendent of Public Works J. D. Keever, County Attorney Wright, County Farm Agent J. Y. Webb and Miss Emma Holmer, clerk, in compliance with the board's decision to reduce all expenses of the county and overcome the deficit which the treasury is now facing.

EDWIN K. DAVIS DIES AT HOSPITAL

Chief Engineer for Fulton Bag Was Noted World War Flyer.

Edwin K. Davis, chief engineer for the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, and noted World War aviator, died at 5:50 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at a private hospital. He underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis last week. Immediately after the operation Mr. Davis' condition improved and he appeared on the road to recovery, but he suffered a relapse early Wednesday afternoon from which he did not rally.

Mr. Davis, a first lieutenant in the reserve air corps here, was second in command of the Cavalier field air corps reserve unit. He had for many years taken an active interest in aviation and during the war was a noted pilot. He was the fifth pilot sent to France for active duty by the United States army, and the first Atlanta native to enlist in the air corps when war was declared.

Mr. Davis was credited with being the principal factor in the formation of the Cavalier field reserve unit. After serving for some time on the front lines in France, he was sent to the rear by army officials as a test pilot and awarded an "expert pilot" license.

Before leaving for France Mr. Davis was an instructor at the Georgia Tech ground school in aviation and later was transferred to Kelly field, Texas, in the same capacity. He was a graduate of Georgia Tech.

Originally from Pennsylvania, of Quaker parentage, he had lived here for the past 20 years and had been connected with Fulton Bag for the past 19 years. He had taken a prominent part in social and civic affairs of the city and was well known.

He was a member of the Atlanta Athletic Club until a short time ago. He also was a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and of the Homeopark Quaker church, of Baltimore, Md. Several years ago he married Miss Katherine Duhose, member of a prominent Atlanta family, who survives him. He was 38 years old and resided at 1897 Wyckoff road, N. W.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two small daughters, Katherine Duhose Davis and Mary Pope Davis; his mother, Mrs. M. R. Clement, of Atlanta; four sisters, Mrs. Mary Carden Osborn and Mrs. Robert A. Chapman, of Atlanta; Mrs. Evelyn Avery, of Oakland, Cal.; and Mrs. Watson W. Gray, of Baltimore, Md.; and two brothers, F. David Davis, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Sam R. Clement, of Birmingham, Ala. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Students Offer Play Tonight

Misses Peggy Heath and Leila Mae Wilson, who will appear tonight in the "South Sea Minstrels" being offered by the Central Night School student body. Miss Heath heads a cast of 30. The play, which concerns a troupe of players stranded on a savage isle in the Pacific ocean, will start at 7:30 o'clock, in the Central Night auditorium, 232 Pryor St., S.W. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Rev. W. H. Clarke, then presiding elder of the Augusta district, "endeavored to prevent the reading of this paper before the district conference in strong statements to a member of this church in the district conference." Mr. Clarke, it said, "ignored repeated requests" of the stewards of the Sparta church.

Sympathy was expressed to Mr. Smith, his wife and children "in the bitter trial through which they are passing."

Resolutions Text.
The full text of the resolutions signed by the resigning stewards follows:

"We, the undersigned stewards of the Methodist church, south, in Sparta, Ga., in session November 17, 1931, make the following declarations and resolutions:

"Inasmuch as during the last year resolutions of this body in opposition to Canonism have been denied a place in the columns of the papers of our church;

"And, inasmuch as the Nashville Christian Advocate, the general organ of our church, published editorials reflecting upon the loyalty of the quarterly conference of our church to prohibition, and later "declined to publish the statement of this board denying the insinuations in said editorial, and did not withdraw said insinuations,"

"And, inasmuch as the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, the organ of the North Georgia and South Georgia conferences, has pigeon-holed several communications from us;

"And, inasmuch as the Augusta district conference in session at Harlem, Ga., in May of this year, refused to allow in its minutes a respectful resolution from us;"

"And, inasmuch as the Rev. W. H. Clarke, presiding elder of the Augusta district, endeavored to prevent the reading of this paper before the district conference in strong statements to a member of this church in the district conference;

"Requests Ignored.

"And, inasmuch as the said Rev. W. H. Clarke, during this year has ignored repeated requests of the stewards of this church;

"And, inasmuch as Bishop John M. Moore, in charge of the North Georgia conference, has not even replied to important communications sent him during the recent session of the North Georgia conference;

"And, inasmuch as we regard the recent trial and suspension of our pastor, Dr. Rembert G. Smith, to have been violative of his disciplinary rights;

"And, inasmuch as Rev. C. D. Read, of Jonesboro, signed the following paper passed by the district conference of the South Georgia district on May 22, 1931:

"Resolutions passed by the South Georgia district conference in regular session, at Mount Gilead Camp Ground, May 22, 1931:

"In view of the fact that a member of the North Georgia conference, for reasons we do not understand, has been fit, drag into the courts of several states certain leading Methodist, we wish to go on record as having absolute confidence in those who are being sued, and feel that they should be relieved of the expense and embarrassment of a court trial. We further urge Brother Rembert G. Smith to withdraw his several suits against our brethren and sister: (Signed) "JOHN A. MANGET, "J. H. BARTON, "HOMER THOMPSON, "C. D. READ, "WILLIS M. JONES," Stewards Resign.

"Be it resolved, first, that we, the undersigned stewards, resign our offices as stewards in the Sparta M. E. Church, South.

"Resolved second, that we inform Bishop John M. Moore, the president of the North Georgia conference, and Rev. W. H. LaPrade, D. D., presiding elder of the Augusta district of the North Georgia conference, and the Rev. C. D. Read, the newly-appointed preacher to the Sparta church, of this action and that we further inform them that we will not perform the duties of stewards in the Sparta Methodist Episcopal church, from the date of this paper.

"Resolved third, that we inform the Rev. C. D. Read, that we greatly deplore the fact that he saw fit to sign the above quoted resolution passed at the South Georgia district conference, which said resolution we consider a trespass upon the rights of Dr. Rembert G. Smith.

"Resolved fourth, that we express to Dr. Smith, his wife and children our sympathy and assure them of our prayers in the bitter trial through which they are passing.

"Resolved fifth, that we declare that in this declaration we are true to the Methodist of Francis Asbury, Jesse Lee, Richmond Noller, John Lucas, Lovick Pierce, George Foster Pierce, Josiah Lewis, W. J. Sasser, and the other ascended leaders who have labored and prayed in Hancock county for the cause of Methodism and the Master in the years that have gone.

"Resolved further, that we give this declaration to the church and press.

"Resolved sixth, that we request Dr. Smith to give to the press, or otherwise publish in full, the address delivered by him at the Hancock county courthouse on the evening of November 15, 1931.

(Signed) W. D. Dolvin, H. A. Berry, Geo. W. Johnson, G. W. Rivers, E. E. Miller, R. H. Hollis, C. B. Moore, Harry Binns, Harry Orin, E. E. Alfriend and E. A. Reese.

knowledge of any threats or promises to Kosnosky.

Police Captain A. J. Holcomb testified that he witnessed Kosnosky's statement as a notary public, and that Kosnosky told him that he made the statement of his own free will and accord.

The defense, after learning from the state that it intends introducing the statement in evidence, announced that it will seek to show that the statement was not made freely and voluntarily.

The defense asked that Judge Pomeroy exclude the jury from the room while it presents its witnesses along this line, but Judge Pomeroy said the jury should hear this evidence.

Jurors Selected.
The state probably will rest about noon today, and the defense will begin its case Wednesday night. Admissibility of testimony Wednesday was bitterly contested, but in a majority of instances Judge Pomeroy allowed the state to bring out the points it sought to develop. Presentation of the evidence began during the early part of the afternoon, following selection of the following jurors:

C. M. Jenkins, draftsman, 839 Ponce de Leon place.
W. A. Shearin, Austin Brothers Bridge Company, 132 Newman avenue, College Park.
T. A. Andrews, grocery store manager, 1033 Kirkwood avenue.
D. C. Lyle Sr., real estate broker, 1114 North Main street, College Park.
H. F. Gay, salesman Austin Brothers Bridge Company, 656 Elmwood, 1278 Morningside drive.
J. H. Reed, sales manager, 950 Drewry street.
W. E. Bradford, ice dealer, Brown's Mill road.
C. G. Hogood, stationary engineer, 19 South Bend avenue, Lakewood Heights.
T. G. Young, street car shop employee, 359 Loomis avenue.
C. W. Wheeler, insurance claim adjuster, 330 Sixth street, N. E.
J. D. Bell, sheet metal worker, Center Hill.

Two witnesses told the jury that they saw a man run from the apartment house after they heard cries for help and a shot. These witnesses were Jack Hair, manager of a filling station at 301 Ponce de Leon, and Irvin Bowden, negro, employee of the filling station. Neither witness could give an accurate description of the man nor of the driver of the car which he entered, nor did they get the license number of the car. Hair, however, testified that the man who ran from the apartment building had the form and general size of Lee.

Witnesses presented by the state included residents of the apartment building, who heard the cries of Lichtenstein for help and the shot. They included Dr. Samuel J. Sinkov, Mrs. Sybil Lee and Mrs. N. F. Schub. In addition, David Harris, who was visiting Dr. Sinkov, gave similar testimony. Dr. J. C. Black, county physician, said that Lichtenstein's death was caused by a bullet wound, the bullet entering at the right temple and passing downward to the left. Officer A. J. Wingate told of answering a call to the apartment building and investigating the slaying. A bullet, identified by Wingate as one he picked up on the floor of Lichtenstein's apartment, was admitted into evidence over defense objection.

Attorney Durwood T. Poe, of defense counsel, presented the objections of the defense to state testimony, while Attorney M. G. Hicks conducted the cross-examination of witnesses. Assistant Solicitors-General Ed A. Stephens and LeCraw conducted the examination of the witnesses. The defense is being assisted by Robert E. Church, Wellborn Ellis and Leonard Hightower.

Lee was convicted last week of murder without a recommendation to mercy. He will be sentenced Saturday by Judge Pomeroy. Arthur W. Powell and Marvin Russell, defense attorneys, who are seeking to have Judge Pomeroy pass a life sentence instead of the death sentence, were interested spectators Wednesday at Kosnosky's trial.

Address orders to Annette Pattern Department, care The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Springs, Ga., for a brief vacation. He is due to arrive at the resort at 7:20 o'clock tomorrow night.

The discussion about which so little was learned was across a big mahogany table in the dining room of Governor Roosevelt's town house, at 49 East 66th street.

Through the reception room adjoining and through the library and living room on the floor above moved crowds of strangers, attending an exhibit and sale of hand-made turnings manufactured at the Hyde Park factory, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is part owner.

But heavy sliding doors shut off the dining room from the rest of the house and the governor and the former governor were alone. The luncheon lasted about two hours and a half.

So far as is publicly known, this was the first meeting between Smith and Roosevelt since their disagreement over the state reforestation amendment, passed at the recent election. Smith was against it, Roosevelt for it. It was also, so far as is publicly known, their first meeting since the recent visits here of Mayor Cermak, of Chicago, and Governor Ritchie, of Maryland.

The political writers were willing to accept the former governor's statement that they talked state finance. They only wanted to know what else they talked about, if anything. They did not find out.

After the luncheon, Governor Roosevelt sent out the following message: "I'm busy on my Thanksgiving proclamation, and if you boys don't leave me alone, there won't be any turkey."

Former Governor Smith drove up in a limousine promptly at noon, wearing his brown derby at what some of the veterans among the newspapermen described as "an aggressive angle."

ATLANTA DOCTOR ASKS BIRTH CONTROL STAND

Dr. C. C. Aven Urges Medical Body To Adopt "Positive Program."

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Condemning "bootleg information on birth control," Dr. C. C. Aven, Atlanta, Ga., today called on the American Medical Association to adopt a "positive program" with reference to contraceptive instruction.

"A definite attitude can no longer be avoided without disastrous consequences," he said, declaring that "the world's population about doubles itself every 60 years and one-fourth of our own population is confronted with the question of procreation."

The address opened the first clinical session of the association. Dr. Felix J. Underwood, Jackson, Miss., president of the southern group, explained that the subject had been brought forward at once as one of "prime importance to the profession in view of recent birth control agitation in the churches."

Dr. Aven said that presentation of his views was in terms of "sound advice to the married woman."

He urged that "such advice should come from the physician and not from some bootlegger in information of this kind."

NAVAL STORES FIRMS MUST PAY SALES TAX

Reversing the ruling made by his predecessor in office, State Tax Commissioner Paul H. Doyal Wednesday held that naval stores manufacturers, dealers and factors are not exempt from the payment of the state's sales tax.

"The gross receipts tax act approved August 29, 1923, and amendments thereto, do not contain any provision for allowing exemption to naval stores manufacturers, dealers or factors," Doyal held. "Any ruling or practice which may have been in effect not provided by law is hereby annulled."

The new ruling on naval stores was similar to one on cotton recently promulgated by the new commissioner. He held that tax exemption provided for agricultural products ends when the products are sold by the farmer or grower and do not continue through the processes of resale and manufacture or through storage warehouses in the case of cotton.

More than $100,000 will be added to the treasury, Commissioner Doyal estimated, as a result of the new rulings.

Juvenile 'Shiners Draw Warm Rebuke From Federal Judge

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 18.—(AP) Federal Judge F. A. Youmans observed from the bench today that in Miller county "whisky manufacturing has assumed the proportions of a principal industry" and youths seem to get a greater thrill from operating moonshine stills "than from playing football or reading dime novels."

The appearance before him on liquor charges of three youths in their teens drew the comment from him. "Citizens seem to believe it is their constitutional right to engage in liquor traffic in this county," Judge Youmans said.

"One of the purposes of law enforcement and sentencing of criminals is to deter others from violation of the law, but so far it has had little effect on Miller county."

The boys, Homer, Darg and Guy Harvey, 19, 18 and 16 years of age, respectively, pleaded guilty to possessing a still and 19 gallons of liquor.

Homer and Guy were sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $50 each, while Darg was placed on probation to Sheriff R. W. Turquette.

Carol Threatens Brother's Arrest In Wedding Row

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Prince Nicholas of Rumania is under threat of arrest by his brother, King Carol, following a hot quarrel between the two at the palace in Bucharest after the prince's recent marriage to a commoner, it was learned today.

Details of the quarrel, just revealed here, told of a stormy scene in which King Carol tore up the marriage certificates before the prince's eyes and the prince countered with defiance, declaring he had photostatic copies.

"I anticipated your unreasonable behavior," the prince snapped, "and your bad temper. I had copies made of those papers. You don't think I intend to allow my children to be declared illegitimate, do you?"

"You will have a few days in which to think this over, young man," the king replied. "Remember, I can put you under arrest at any moment and deprive you of all your royal privileges."

Prince Nicholas, it was said, turned on his heel and stalked out of the royal presence. Bucharest is said to be waiting the outcome with excitement.

WET GAIN ASSURED IN JERSEY ELECTION

ELIZABETH, N. J., Nov. 18.—(AP) Another vote for the wet bloc in congress apparently was assured today with the nomination of Donald McLean by republicans of the fifth congressional district to complete the term of the late Ernest R. Ackerman.

Percy H. Stewart, the democratic nominee who was unopposed, is a wet. Ackerman was a republican dry. McLean and Stewart will contest for the seat at a special election December 1.

McLean won the nomination from three opponents in a special primary yesterday, marked by a light vote.

THIRD SAILOR FOUND TO BE RABIES VICTIM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A third case of rabies has developed among the sailors who were bitten by the pet dog which ran amuck on the destroyer John D. Edwards October 16.

Eleven other men are under treatment at the Naval hospital at Casco, Philippine Islands, and two already are dead.

The commanding officer of the hospital reported to the navy department the development of the third case today but did not give the name of the victim.

Thousands of Votes Expected In Charity Drive by Saturday

With far more churches and charities participating than had been expected at this stage of the Good Samaritan Bazaar Campaign, it is expected that vote tokens in the shape of cash register receipts, duplicate sales slips, labels, bottle caps or wrappers of brands advertised in the campaign running into the thousands will have been cast at campaign headquarters, 137 Peachtree Arcade, by Saturday night, the closing date of the first period of the $6,000 campaign designed to stimulate business.

The following churches have already entered officially:

Peachtree Road Presbyterian, Epworth Methodist, Bethany Baptist, Capitol View Baptist, Western Heights Baptist, Fortified Hills Baptist, Stewart Avenue Methodist, Inman Park Methodist, Capitol View Christian, Gordon Street Baptist, Park Street Methodist, Order of Rebecca, Third District of Georgia, Grady Hospital Auxiliary, Atlanta Good Will Industries.

Many churches and charities not already officially entered to receive the bonus of 10,000 votes which is offered for official participation have signified their intention of entering in the campaign designed to provide a strong stimulus to buying during the next six-month period. Most of the churches enter through one of the subdivisions of the church and in many cases these organizations have meetings once weekly and others twice or once a month, and some of the entries will be delayed until these respective meetings.

Those who have been saving votes for their particular church or charity are urged to cast them at campaign headquarters, 137 Peachtree Arcade, before 6 o'clock Saturday night. Receipts will be given to all who bring votes in to be counted for the first prize period of the campaign. The weekly prizes amount to $130 per week for 25 weeks, making for a distribution of $3,250 in weekly prize money, the first four churches each week participating. The votes cast each given week are carried forward to count in the total at the end of the campaign, when $2,750 will be divided among the first four churches. It is to be remembered that votes obtained through purchases or payment of accounts during any given week may be cast at any time during the period of the campaign.

Many of the churches already in the campaign are organizing for results in the Good Samaritan campaign in much the same fashion they would obtain in connection with any other character of drive within the church. Officers of the particular subdivision undertaking the effort in behalf of the particular church or charity will have their divisional officers, who will be charged with the responsibility of procuring workers and collecting the votes for their particular church or charity.

Vote tokens may be delivered to officers of participating churches or to entry blanks are supplied for official entry. This involves no commitments whatever, being merely a record of official participation which carries with it a bonus of 10,000 votes to start the church in its campaign. However, official entry is not absolutely necessary, for the rules provide that the first votes in favor of any particular church count as a nomination and all such votes cast will be counted during the campaign.

A number of churches has votes to their credit in this respect, though these will not be published until every

'Dumb' Girl Cashier Fools Bank Bandits

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Four robbers were foiled late yesterday when they tried to rob the Metropolitan State bank by a girl who played dumb.

When the quartet demanded that Miss Helen Kuphas, the cashier, open the door leading to the rear of the tellers' cages, she pretended not to understand. Then she stumbled clumsily—but stepped on the burglar alarm in her awkwardness. This set off a warning in a nearby police station.

Meanwhile, one of the disguised bandits fired a shot through the glass panel of the door and reached down to unlock it. John Brezna, president of the bank, heard the shot, rushed out of his private office, and began shooting.

The bandits fled.

'UNCLE ALF' TAYLOR REPORTED MUCH BETTER

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Former Governor Alfred A. Taylor spent a restful night and was reported "much better" today by attendants at Appalachian hospital, where he is a patient.

Attendants said hope was held that a threat of pneumonia might disappear.

Yesterday "Uncle Alf" smoked his cigar, drank an extra glass of lemonade and chatted with his attending physician, Dr. Harry Miller.

opportunity is given for official entry, after consideration by the members of the church or subdivision interested.

In the meantime it is urged that everyone begin to ask for and demand the votes which are their right when buying from participating merchants or at advertised brands on the Good Samaritan Page.

COLLEGES DISAPPROVE EDUCATIONAL REPORT

E. O. Holland Named Head of Land Grant Association at Closing Session.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Association of Land Grant Colleges withheld today its approval of the report made to President Hoover by his national advisory committee on education.

The report recommended, among other things, the withdrawal of federal participation in charting the course of state educational affairs.

The executive committee of the Land Grant Association reported that "agricultural education and research as now being carried forward in land grant colleges have a national aspect and significance which the national advisory committee on education has steadily failed to appreciate."

The association's action followed the recommendation of its group named to co-operate with the president's advisory committee. The operating committee is composed of seven colleges and university presidents, among whom are F. L. McVey, University of Kentucky; J. J. Tigert, University of Florida; and J. A. Pearson, University of Maryland.

At the closing session E. O. Holland, president of the State College of Washington, was elected president of the association, succeeding Dr. Rightmire, of Ohio State.

Forest Fire Damage Slight in Areas Protected by State, Asserts Stone

Forest fires in south Georgia have burned less than one per cent of units under protection and activities of the state forestry service for the present time are being concentrated in the Waycross area to combat the menace of a long drouth, Bonnell Stone, secretary of the state forestry board, said Wednesday after visiting the forest fire territory.

Stone said that incendiary fires in one large unit under protection in Echols and Clinch counties were causing apprehension along a line of 15 miles which extends into northern Florida.

"All that is saving the lands of the Superior Pine Products Company," Stone said, "is a line of men who keep constant vigil, day and night, under the direction of Captain I. F. Eldridge, company manager."

State Forester B. M. Lufburrow, it was announced at the department Wednesday, is in the south Georgia territory and will remain there directing the work until the hazard is ended.

A general fire conference will be held at Waycross Thursday by all members of the state forestry service, and every effort is being made to relieve the strain on the timber protective organizations that have been doing work up to the present time as well as concentrating on the organizing of new units and getting them fully equipped for all emergencies," Stone said.

"By far the heaviest strain has been on the Waycross district where District Forester Beale has shown splendid leadership and the few organizations that we have at the present time in the Columbus district have had good results in the prevention and suppression of fires under the leadership of District Forester Wallace at Columbus.

"The Georgia mountain area has been exceptionally free from fire up to this time, although the Carolina mountains have not been so fortunate and we are glad that these general rains Wednesday in the northern part of the state make it safe for district foresters there to move to warily on the firing line in Waycross territory."

'BOSS' GILLIS SECOND IN MAYORALTY RACE

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Nov. 18.—(UP)—Mayor "Boss" Gillis was nominated but ran second to Gayden W. Morrill, shoe manufacturer and former city councillor, in Tuesday's mayoralty primary election.

Morrill bested Bossy by 927 votes and polled 2,724, the largest ever given a mayoralty candidate in a primary election here. The Gillis total was 1,803. John F. Leary was third with 1,133 votes. Eugene Twomey, city council president, with whom Bossy engaged in street fistfights recently and for which Bossy was fined $10, placed a poor fourth with 221 votes. The two other candidates in the six-cornered race made a negligible showing. There will be a run-over.

ONE KILLED, 7 HURT IN OHIO TRAIN WRECK

FRAZEEBURG, Ohio, Nov. 18.—(AP)—One man was killed and seven others injured, three seriously, when a Pennsylvania railroad freight train derailed three miles west of here this afternoon. The dead man, unidentified, was listed as a "hobo" who was stealing a ride. Six of the injured also were "hoboes."

Rodgers is accused of holding up a truck and stealing 400 cases of liquor, a shotgun, and a pair of eye glasses last March. He was arrested at his home here recently and fought extradition on the ground he was not the man wanted.

Miss Anne Wynn Fleming Makes Debut at Piedmont Driving Club

Miss Anne Wynn Fleming, one of the season's most attractive debutantes, who was photographed at the brilliant debut tea at which her mother, Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, entertained yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club to formally present her charming daughter to married members of Atlanta society. Miss Fleming will be honor guest at the dinner-dance at which her grandmother, Mrs. James Osgood Wynn, will entertain Wednesday, December 9, inviting members of the younger set. Staff photo.

November the 18th will always be a vivid day in the life of Miss Anne Wynn Fleming, who was formally presented to fashionable married members of Atlanta society at a brilliant reception by her mother, Mrs. Malcolm N. Fleming, at the Piedmont Driving Club. The loggia and steps leading to the ballroom were banked with colorful autumn leaves forming a background for the pedestal baskets holding gorgeous bronze chrysanthemums harmonizing with the foliage and the bronze candles placed in cathedral candlesticks. Mrs. Fleming, Miss Fleming and Mrs. Wynn received in the ballroom, standing at the right of the entrance before an artistic arrangement of state palms and foliage plants and baskets holding pink chrysanthemums.

The congratulatory floral offerings, ranging from the sophisticated grandeur of orchids to the sweetest of old-fashioned bouquets, sent as a fragrant greeting to the popular and attractive Miss Fleming, formed a lower on either side of the receiving line, the floral screen being covered with smilax and the bouquets were gracefully arranged thereon.

The coffee table, placed in the center of the ballroom, was overlaid with a lace cloth and held as its central decoration a large plateau of pink chrysanthemums, out of which rose a large shower of chrysanthemums. Four handsome silver services were placed at artistic intervals and were alternated with tall epergnes holding purple and white grapes and green apples. Silver candelabra holding pink tapers tied with tulle bows and tiny clusters of pink button chrysanthemums added to the graceful arrangement. Presiding at the coffee table were Mesdames Cam Dorsey, Philip Alston, Carroll Lattimer, Alvin Smith, Philip McDaniel, Victor Smith, William Shallenberger, E. D. Richardson, Phinizy Calhoun, John Denton, Clarence Haverly and Jack Thiesen.

Two small tables were placed on either side of the fireplace in the ballroom and were covered with lace cloths and ornamented with plateaus of pink pom-pom chrysanthemums, and silver compots held cakes and mints richly embossed in pink flowers. Presiding at these tables were a group of sub-debs, including the debutante's sister, Miss Adelaide Fleming, and Misses Charlotte Adams, Florrie Adkins and Eleanor Torhune.

A log fire burned in the fireplace to add cheerfulness to the occasion, and the mantel was banked with autumn leaves and pink chrysanthemums. Tea was served buffet style, and each guest's plate held a single pink rose which the guests wore as corsages.

Miss Fleming's aristocratic blond beauty was enhanced by her becoming gown of white Elizabeth crepe, made on long lines. The bodice was draped and embroidered in rhinestones. A knot of orchid velvet ribbon adorned one shoulder and hung in streamers, and a shoulder spray of deep purple orchids completed her costume.

Mrs. Fleming was gowned in a model of powder blue lace made on fashionable lines and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids.

Mrs. Wynn wore midnight blue velvet, the bodice being made of gold and blue lace. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of orchids.

Miss Louise Middleton, of Monroe, N. C., the guest of Miss Fleming, wore a gown fashioned of white satin and a skirt of black satin worn with a shoulder spray of orchids.

Miss Crenshaw wore a gown made along most fashionable lines of royal blue crepe de chine, the sleeves having large ruffles at the shoulder and the skirt with buttons to the wrists. With this she wore a blue felt hat trimmed with a blue velvet bow, and a shoulder bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Past Officers' Club Honors Mrs. Crumley At Fall Meeting

Past Officers' Club of the Third District met with Patriotic Rebekah Lodge at Fort McPherson, Ga., with the president, Mrs. Harper H. Harden, presiding. The guest of honor was the president of the Rebekah assembly, Mrs. J. G. Crumley, of Cornelia, Ga., who was introduced to the club by Mrs. E. W. Tripp, past president from the altar. While acknowledging receipt of the introduction, Mrs. Crumley was presented with a silver cream and sugar dish, the gift of friends in the association, by Mrs. F. G. Simpson, of Georgia Rebekah Lodge No. 17.

Past presidents of the assembly present, who were introduced by Mrs. W. H. Hutchins, Mrs. George Seaton, Mrs. M. C. Strickland, Mrs. W. E. Beattie, Mrs. A. B. Brown, of Griffin, Ga.; Mrs. G. H. Hughes, Mrs. E. W. Tripp and Mrs. E. A. McArthur. The warden of the assembly, Mrs. C. C. Holt, and chaplain, Mrs. Ruby Broom, were introduced. Reports of officers showed fine work done during the past month, among which was the sponsoring of the harvest shower, through which more than $125 was donated to the Robert T. Daniel Memorial Home at Griffin, Ga., in which are some 40 children, their support being the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of this state. The association, through its president, Mrs. H. H. Harden, also endorsed the Penny Club movement, and paid up a pledge for the club, in addition to the ones which were being kept up by the individual members.

Three new members added to the club were Mrs. F. A. Smith and Mrs. A. B. Reid, from Georgia Rebekah Lodge No. 15, and Miss Ella K. Fleming, P. N. G., of Decatur Rebekah Lodge No. 31. Mrs. C. C. Holt, chairman of the ways and means committee, asked the support of the association in a doughnut sale, which will be sponsored Tuesday, November 24. The proceeds from this sale will go towards buying the children of the home shoes and winter underwear.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. C. R. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church, of Atlanta, Ga., was introduced by Mrs. Harden, and made a talk. The president of the assembly, Mrs. Crumley, also made a talk. Mrs. Crumley is one of the most popular and admired presiding assemblies of Georgia has ever had, and has a host of friends in Atlanta and throughout the state. Mrs. M. C. Strickland, of Atlanta, Ga., grand secretary, made a brief talk.

The association closed with prayer by Dr. Stauffer and with met with Fulton Rebekah lodge December 22, at which time the Christmas tree will be held. Mrs. Harden is closing one of the most successful years the club has ever had. The club under her leadership has sponsored showers for the home, and has a fund already raised to provide the children with Christmas presents, in addition to which each member will sponsor a child for an "individual" Christmas present.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

At 25 I have no boy-friends. I am quiet. I am not interested in sports. My one diversion is an occasional movie. I don't go anywhere and consequently I don't know what is going on in the world. My job is in the country and my home in the city. I work all week and go home tired to spend the week-end. I don't like boys who drink and try to get. How can I meet some of the right sort? All the men I know are discouraged.

ANSWER:

You might approach the problem in a slightly different way. You have written a letter telling what qualifications you lack for friendship with the men and you have covered the ground pretty well. When you went out to get your position you didn't tell him by telling him you employer what you liked to do and what you didn't. You didn't tell him about your limitations, you told him about your ability, your experience and about your reasons for thinking you could hold down that particular job. You told him that you would learn to do what was necessary, if you didn't happen to know, and you straight away set out to do that.

It is the same problem you face in making and holding friends among the men. It is fair enough to say you don't want to make connection with those who drink and want to get. But that's the only type you are qualified to connect with. You don't talk being married, quiet, and unengaged. You don't indulge in athletic sports. You don't go anywhere to meet men. And I am sorry if it sounds brutal, but you have nothing to offer any man might come your way. Some women have the good luck to marry men whom they "happen" to meet but as a general rule a girl must "circulate" if she is to form any large acquaintance with the opposite sex. Save your money and take a trip occasionally. Form some friendships with girls who have the knack of attracting men. Join some club or some sort of social organization that will throw you into contact with people of both sexes. Don't spend your week-ends at home in bed. Go visiting.

The time was when it was proper for a woman to know nothing beyond the confines of her home. That day is past. The boys are going to college. They are informed of world events. They expect to be able to discuss them with the women of their acquaintance. They expect the woman to be conversant with all of them and to be able to engage in some of them. A woman can't sit at home and say as Queen Victoria did: "We are not interested in anything to do with the world." And if she wants any man to seek her out she must go further and be amusing. One cannot be amusing on what is gleaned in the office and in the home. One must go afield, either actually, or in reading and study.

One word of warning, in your eagerness for male companionship don't allow yourself to become involved with the married men to whom you refer. There is nothing but trouble in such alliances. These married men, if they are not amused at home, will promise to amuse themselves, but they never pay. There are good reasons why they cannot pay. They may forget them temporarily but once you begin to close in on them they have a wonderful awakening of conscience and a deep sense of responsibility. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Culbertson on Contract

Look Out for Squalls

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Probably the most fruitful source of partnership disharmony in the Contract table is the nonfitting hand—the hand in which one player is very long and very strong in one suit and his partner is equally long and possibly equally strong in another.

The difficulties of such holdings are greatly accentuated when tremendous length and honor strength in either hand is combined with a void in the suit which forms the backbone of the partner's holding. In such cases someone has to yield. Too often the yielding comes so late that only the opportunity benefit, but there is a reasonably safe rule to follow with such holdings and that rule is as follows:

When a player knows that his partner can make use of his cards, but knows that he cannot make use of his partner's cards, then he should subordinate his holding, however rich in honors, to the common interests of the partnership.

The player who can do this is entitled to the medal which I have often thought belonged to the perfect partner.

Today's hand is one on which perfect partnership obtained maximum results, while the player who insisted only in looking at his own hand suffered a disastrous defeat. It was played in Duplicate.

1—North knows that South holds a very strong spade suit with at least five certain tricks in that suit if spades are trump and in addition not less than 1-1-2 honors in hearts and diamonds. He could safely have bid even more clubs, but perhaps he knew his partner.

Utterly refusing to listen to his partner's message of great club strength and probably no strength outside, South should have known his hand would be valuable to his partner. He could not help knowing that his partner's hand was valueless to him if it contained no entry outside the club suit.

Played at spades, South not only lost a trump trick but two tricks in hearts and two tricks in diamonds as well, thus being thrown for a penalty loss of 700 points. The 100 points he scored for honors proved but slight amelioration of the hurts suffered by the partnership.

Burgess Children's Stories

THE QUARREL COMES TO A SUDDEN END.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

When common danger threatens all a petty quarrel seems small.

—Old Mother Nature.

Sharpsin the Hawk, like all members of the Hawk family, has sharp eyes. They are wonderful eyes. They can see a long distance. Now it happens that on this particular morning Sharpsin flew over Farmer Brown's cornfield, and as usual his sharp eyes were watching for bird or mouse, for he was hungry. He looked along the row of sunflower plants at one end of that cornfield and caught sight of something yellow-and-black darting about one of those plants at the end of the row.

"Chicoree the Goldfinch, and he is in a bad temper. He is fighting with someone and when anyone is fighting he forgets everything else," thought Sharpsin. "I have had many a good meal as the result of a quarrel. To be sure, Chicoree will make hardy more than a bite, but a bite is a bite." He swung about and shot straight for the place where Chicoree and Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse were foolishly quarreling over the sunflower seeds.

It was Chicoree who discovered Sharpsin. Chicoree had stopped on the top of another sunflower plant to get his breath and wisely he took a hasty look around. He saw Sharpsin just as the latter started that way. He was coming fast, terribly fast. Not a moment was to be lost. Chicoree dived headlong in under the long leaves of the cornstalks, where he would be at least partly hidden from the fierce sharp eyes. But even in his fright he didn't forget to warn Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse. Even as he took that headlong dive he shrieked a warning.

"Hawk! Hawk! Hawk!" he shrieked.

That was enough for Danny and Nanny. Yes, sir, that was enough for them. Quarrel, sunflower seeds, everything but safety was forgotten. They didn't wait to find out where that Hawk was. They didn't run all the way down that plant. Halfway down they jumped, landing with a thump, thump. Danny ran one way and Nanny another, for it is always best to separate when an enemy appears suddenly. It is likely to be confusing to him. It may make him hesitate for a second deciding which one to follow, and in the life of a Meadow Mouse a second, one fifth second, may mean the difference between safety and being caught.

Danny darted into some tall grass and squatted close to the ground, keeping perfectly still, his little heart thumping with fright. Nanny darted into the cornfield and hid between the stalks of a big plant, her heart also going pit-a-pat, pit-a-pat with fright.

Now Danny and Nanny had not been seen by Sharpsin until they started to run and he was traveling too fast to check himself in time to swoop at one of them, so he kept on after Chicoree. He shot headlong in among the corn plants, but was just too late. Chicoree had managed to get out of sight. Sharpsin swung up and hovered above the corn, his sharp eyes searching for the least movement or a glimpse of yellow and black. He saw neither and in a few minutes flew away.

So ended a foolish quarrel for Chicoree and Danny and Nanny wisely decided that there were seeds enough for all and fighting over them didn't pay.

BABY

FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause—

Does your baby have nights when he fusses, tosses and seems unable to go quickly, quietly to sleep? Look for one common cause, doctors say. A constipated condition.

To get rid quickly of accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria.

Castoria, you know, is made especially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics of any kind.

It is mild and gentle enough to relieve a young infant's colic pains, yet is an effective regulator for children of school age.

When your baby is upset and unable to sleep, or has a little cold or fever, it is a wise precaution to give him the gentle but sure regulative help of Castoria. With regulation come relaxed comfort and restful sleep.

Keep a bottle always on hand. Children like the taste of real Castoria—which always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

"God, and that to a Graham." Irma couldn't repress the paroxysms of laughter which seized her.

"You wouldn't laugh if Mildred were your kid."

Irma jumped up from the chair where she had sat mending one of the baby's sweaters. "Wallace, no kid of mine would ever be in the fit Mildred's in. Unless I pass out my kid'll have somebody to talk to when he's in love or biologically drawn to a woman or whatever the hell they call it nowadays."

"O, sure, you'd arrange things much better. You're a swell arranger when you don't have to do it."

"I'll take care of this matter if you want me to."

"Sure, you'd be good at it, too."

"I pity you when Mildred finds out you definitely said no to Scott Avery. She'll hate you."

"Children often hate their parents when the parents are doing the right thing for them," Wallace pointed out virtuously.

"Horse feathers! You don't know you're doing the right thing for Mildred. You're just doing the right thing for Wallace."

"Irma, this is not your affair. I must try to think what Anne would want me to do."

"O, pardon me. Okay. Do you want the ouija board?"

She picked up the scrambled contents of the sewing bowl then and went upstairs. Both she and Wallace knew that they had been unreasonably nasty to each other but neither was particularly disturbed or repentant. After all this was no strawberry festival. This was marriage.

Mildred was late in getting home from school. There was nothing unusual about that. Often she and Jane went somewhere without serving notice of their intentions on either family. Still today it was different. Irma glancing at Wallace saw that his skin was gray and his lips completely colorless. She knew what he was thinking and because their quarters had been neatly patched up an hour before, she patted his hand and said, "She'll be in, Wallace. It wouldn't be Mildred to keep you in suspense. You'll always know what hell she is up to—if that's any consolation to you."

It was very nearly half past six when Mildred came. In the half hour preceding her arrival Wallace had drunk enough to steel himself for the ordeal of telling her what he thought of Scott Avery. He had drunk enough also to stand up well under the news of her elopement. But he had not reckoned on a scene with his daughter in which she would take an active part. Had he foreseen that perhaps he would have drunk more—or less.

The moment Mildred entered Irma saw that there was trouble ahead for Wallace. The pale, set face of the girl, the quick, businesslike manner in which she stowed her hat and coat indicated a high nervousness. Aunt Tessie and even the best of her went when Mildred turned from the closet and faced Wallace.

He had begun by saying, "Mildred, I saw Scott Avery today. He was pretty rotten to him, too. He didn't say so because he's too big to be annoyed by petty things, but he said you definitely refused to let him marry me. And you have no business to do that."

"Mildred!" Wallace was aghast. "I have no business? Then who has?"

"Nobody has, I'm me. It's up to me and nobody else whom I marry."

"Mildred," Aunt Tessie purred, "you're talking to your father."

"And what's more," Mildred plunged on, "I'm not much younger than Irma when she married me, but, of course, seeing the man was you, Irma did the right thing."

"If you are going to be rude to your father, Mildred, let me be logical with it," Irma said. "You can't compare you and me. I'd known lots of men and seen a lot of life before I married."

"Well, I don't want to know a lot of men before I get married," Mildred said.

"If your choice runs to people like

Avery, I hope you don't know any more," Wallace said. "Cheap remarks about him. If you don't know anything definitely creditable just be vaguely insulting about him."

"Mildred, go to your room."

"I thought you'd say that next. Before I go, though, I want to tell you something. I'm going to marry Scott. If I don't have your consent, I'll do without it. He only asked you any how because he knew you were the kind who'd like that sort of thing."

Wallace's face turned as crimson as a ripe apple. "Like that sort of thing, I should think I would. Where have you gotten these fine ideas that a 17-year-old girl can do as she pleases? I'll show you, you little ingrate."

"I suppose I do seem ungrateful, but I'm not going to lose Scott. I'm no baby. I've seen things. Lillian Malcolm didn't get the man she wanted because her father made her wait three years. Before the three years were over he was married and had gotten about her. Men don't wait three years."

"They do if they're truly in love."

"Yes, in books. Scott isn't in a book. I don't think he'd wait at all. I think none the less of him for it. You're romanticizing to get over a tough spot and you know it. You wouldn't have waited three years for Irma or for mamma, either."

Wallace got up and lit a cigar. He passed his daughter in his march to the mantel shelf, but did not look at her. Had he looked he might have been frightened to see the calmness of her eyes and the still, unquivering poise of her slim form. There was plenty of fight left in her.

He inhaled the cigar smoke deeply and addressed her in even tones than he had hitherto used.

"Mildred, I'm sorry that you found it necessary to behave so rudely to me. Your tantrum, however, only proves how completely childish you are and how unfitted you are to take an important step. Also you've revealed a side of yourself I've never seen before. I must believe then that you are capable of saying and also doing things which I wouldn't expect of you."

Wallace paused then and looked swiftly at Irma as though to gauge how his performance was being received. She whispered a sudden rush of silly, meaningless words to the baby and buried her face in his warm little neck to conceal her smile. The slow precision of Wallace's words proved that he felt slightly right and was afraid of a blunder which would detract from his dignity.

"I'm going to treat you like a child now, Mildred. You have proven that you cannot be trusted with freedom. You are now being served notice that you are no longer permitted to go out in the evenings no matter what the circumstance or event. Do you understand?"

"Yes," with elaborate boredom. "You did not intend to continue school after your marriage, did you?"

Mildred looked at him with surprise. "Why no, of course not."

"Then well assume that school is not important to you. You're not to go any more. Do you understand? No more evening jaunts and your only excursions in the daylight will be taken with Irma. Understand?"

Not with Jane or Aunt Tessie, who loves you too insensibly to be sensible, but with Irma. Go to your room now."

Mildred turned and walked upstairs. Obviously this new, unexpected development had stricken her speechless. She did not reply when Aunt Tessie called, "Do you want me, dear?" But Aunt Tessie, for consent, bustled up after her.

In the room below Wallace extinguished his cigar and turned to his wife with a set satisfied nod. "That'll soon knock the nonsense out of her," he said.

Irma did not answer.

"You won't mind keeping an eye on her, will you, dear?" he pursued.

Catfish Smith and Dalrymple Stand Out as All-Southern Ends; Tech Expects Great Crowd for Home-Coming Game Saturday

CATFISH SMITH AND DALRYMPLE LEAD FOR ENDS

Haynes, Tulane, Rated Next for All-Southern Team Honors.

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Dixie's gridiron experts won't have much trouble selecting the ends for the 1931 all-southern conference team. They probably will be Jerry Dalrymple, of Tulane, and Catfish Smith, of Georgia.

If there are any dissenting votes, they probably will be cast in favor of Vernon Haynes, of Tulane. Haynes hasn't been as sensational an end in past seasons as Smith or Dalrymple, but his play this season ranks him alongside these boys.

Other flankmen who have played well this season include Hall, of Florida; Foster, of Vanderbilt; Kelly, of Georgia; Parnell, of Florida; Derrig, of Auburn, and Ben Smith, of Alabama.

TACKLES OFF.

Possibly none of the tackles this year have played as well as Sington, of Alabama, in 1930, but there are a number of fine performers to choose from.

Patton, of Sewanee, has been an outstanding figure in every game. Up-ton, of Tulane, has played well. Hamrick and Rose, of Georgia, are veteran performers. Sanders, of Tennessee, and Levenhew, of Vanderbilt, are among the best. Cobb, of North Carolina State, has been a star in every game.

Georgia offers two fine guards in Maddox and Leathers. Hickman, of Tennessee, and Seafide, of Tulane, have played well all season. Fyall, of North Carolina, has been prominent in every game. Frank, of Tennessee, played sensationally before injuries cut him down and the same may be said of Godfree, of Alabama, who has been handicapped by injuries.

NEBLETT MENTIONED.

Beasley, of Vanderbilt, is good and Wright, of Kentucky, can play either guard or tackle. Krajovic, of Maryland, has been a star in every game of the Old Line's games.

Lodriguez, of Tulane, and Gracey, of Vanderbilt, have set the pace for the centers. Lodriguez replaced Floyd Roberts, Tulane's all-southern pivot man of 1930, and has handled the position with credit.

Neblett, of Georgia Tech; Ferrazzi, of Florida; Mayer, of Tennessee; Sharpe, of Alabama; Reis, of Virginia; and Gilbreath, of North Carolina, are all good centers. Torrance, of Louisiana State, is an offensive tackle, but plays defensive center. He is a 205-pound giant and is 6 feet 5 inches tall.

There are many other fine linemen but these seem to be the cream of the crop.

Hickey Re-elected Association Head

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Thomas Jefferson Hickey has been re-elected association head of the American association baseball through his third year.

Backed solidly throughout a two-day deadlock by four of the eight clubs, the veteran leader of the Class AA league emerged victorious with a one-year contract.

The contract was grudgingly given by his foes for one year instead of the customary three only after it was definite that the deadlock of ballots could not be broken. Thus the outcome was identical to the one in 1929, when Hickey was elected to a second year.

So, go on to the game, anyhow. Or take one of the special trains Saturday morning and come back that evening.

And—secretly—Auburn thinks she can win this football game from Georgia. And there have been greater upsets.

CRAZY OVER HARRIES.

Never again—the harriers can run their legs off for all I care.

There was that story about how "Honest George" Griffin, of Tech, discovered that Tech had a man finishing eleventh instead of seventh, and therefore had won the meet by one point instead of three.

And now comes a letter from E. H. at Athens, Box 226 in the Co-op building, saying that "Honest George" Griffin and "Honest John" Stegeman got together on the telephone and decided that Georgia had won by one point.

This thing might be carried further. Why run the races at all? Let them be settled by telephone.

And listen, E. H.—I won't even tell anyone that you or your roommate went to the N. Y. U. game and brought back some hotel New Yorker stationery.

Anyhow, Georgia won—and without the aid of a bull-snake mascot such as Tech has.

Maybe the bull-snake is responsible for them settling this thing over the wire.

USE HICKORY CHIPS.

J. T. McGee and S. N. Thompson, of East Point, write that they are having an "Old-Time Town Ball" on Thanksgiving Day with a barbecue and some punch. The occasion seems to be the football game between Russell High and Commercial.

And as for a footrace with Brothers Danforth and Blake—who have those fellows ever beat?

Birmingham will have little chance, and shouldn't have (Yoo, hoo, Brother Zipp Newman) to land the proposed Tulane-Tennessee football game.

In the first place, there won't be any Tulane-Tennessee football game. Because it develops that Tennessee is going to play on December 5, and then call it quits. And Tulane plays Washington State on that day.

And then, too, Atlanta or New Orleans—where they have some football-going population, are the two logical cities for such a game.

Atlanta holds the record for southern football attendance with a crowd of 42,000 at Grant field a few years ago. And just last week Athens drew almost 40,000 for the second largest crowd.

So we may as well write out New Orleans. Atlanta would be the logical city for the game. (Gosh, what a lot of civic pride he has!)

I am a bit pained to find that there seems to be no enthusiasm in Knoxville for a game with Notre Dame. The Irish, it is said, are willing to play anyone and Tennessee has been suggested. But somehow the idea doesn't click.

Meanwhile the only thing that can save the situation is for Tulane to fail to get the Rose Bowl bid for the game in the bowl on January 1, 1932.

With no post-season game beyond December 5, Tulane would be forced to acquiesce and play a game with Tennessee. That is if public opinion can force anything.

And Atlanta is the spot for the game—Atlanta where the people go to football games—especially games that have S. A. (Sensational Appeal).

ALL-AMERICAN END.

Tulane may have crushed the spirits of all concerned, but the Auburn spirit remains adamant.

The Auburn team was the only one able to stop the activities of Jerry Dalrymple, Tulane's great end, when the two teams met in Montgomery little more than a week ago.

And pardon me, but here's what the Auburn Plainsman, student publication, said of Jerry Dalrymple:

"Jerry Dalrymple, Tulane's All-American end, spent practically all the afternoon in Montgomery sitting on his All-American."

Aren't these college boys cases?

A REAL CONTEST.

That football game at the Flats for Saturday looms as a great one. Florida is coming up to try and make up for some ticks taken right on the old chin in past weeks.

And the Jackets, having tied North Carolina and earned a virtual tie with Penn, are trying to slip over into the victory column.

One may safely attend the Saturday game at the Flats and be sure of seeing a he-man football game. The Tech players are just now learning the game. And they have learned it in the school of experience, the best one of all.

Saturday is to be home-coming day at the Flats. Jack Thiesen, alumni secretary, has arranged a program, details of which may be found somewhere on the sports pages this morning.

It will be a great day. With the odds even.

AND AT COLUMBUS.

And have you tried to reserve a room at Columbus, Ga., for either Friday or Saturday night?

(That's where Georgia and Auburn meet Saturday.)

"We'll try to take care of you, sir. We'll do our very best, but we are awfully crowded right now."

So if you are going to Columbus and want to sleep there Friday night, wire those hotels early. There will be rooms in private homes if needed.

So, go on to the game, anyhow. Or take one of the special trains Saturday morning and come back that evening.

And—secretly—Auburn thinks she can win this football game from Georgia. And there have been greater upsets.

CRAZY OVER HARRIES.

Never again—the harriers can run their legs off for all I care.

ROBIN SUCCESS HANGS LARGELY ON GLEN WRIGHT

Star Shortstop's Comeback To Be Watched Anxiously by Carey.

By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Glen Wright, around whose ability to stage a comeback at shortstop hinges a good portion of the Brooklyn club's 1932 pennant chances, has so far responded to the treatment of his weak ankles that he has notified his new manager, Max Carey, to plan on his return to form.

"The best news I have had since taking over this job is this word about Wright's improvement," said Carey today in a chat about his plans for reviving Brooklyn's pennant prospects.

"Wright is the mainstay of our infield, if not the entire team. The club went well in 1930 when he made his first comeback. Glen was handicapped a big share of the time last season and the club skidded. There were other factors contributing to that, also, but I don't mind saying I feel much better to know Wright is coming along."

SPEED WANTED.

To the suggestion that he might be expected to put more speed into the Brooklyn lineup for 1932, Max replied:

"That's a great idea but where can I get some speed? Fast ball players who have major league stuff otherwise are not to be plucked off a tree nowadays. The clubs all have the same idea about constructing faster outfits, but I don't intend to sacrifice hitting or any other special ability for speed. If I can improve our baserunning, all well and good. That will be just common sense."

Carey would like to get a good right-hand hitter for his outfield to furnish an alternative in the combination of O'Doul, Frederick and Herman, all of whom bat and throw from the left side. He would also like to add a deal designed to strengthen the infield by getting a player who can answer to that, as Max puts it, is "who wouldn't?"

"We have at least two or three deals in prospect," admitted Carey, "but nothing definite on which to base any conjecture."

"We're in the market for any proposition that will improve the club," the latest baseball gossip, unconfirmed by Carey, is that Cincinnati and Chicago are dickering with Brooklyn in a three-cornered trade discussion. Under this plan, Frederick and O'Doul, the reports are that Black and Wilson of the Cubs, Taylor Douthett and Red Lucas of Cincinnati are involved.

Captain Dumas Wins Service Golf Meet

Captain George Dumas, of the Twenty-second infantry, with a 74 won first prize in a blind par tournament Wednesday afternoon on the Druid Hills golf course for army and navy officers connected with the fourth corps area headquarters.

Second honor was shared equally between Major George Woodard, of the medical corps, with a 73, and Lieutenant C. M. McQuarrie, stationed at G. M. A., with a 75.

The tournament was followed by a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the club and drew 24 entries.

Harry Stephens, professional at the Druid Hills Club, assisted members in the tournament committee in promoting the event which was played on the winter greens.

For the first time in many years the summer greens will be used for winter play without interruption. They were planted some time ago on the summer putting surfaces and during the growth of the winter grass, play continued. The new plan is working out unusually well and the Druid Hills greens are in better condition now than at any time in its history.

Pointer Club Stake Slated at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 18.—(UP)—The $1,000 open all-age stake of the Pointer Club of America here December 7 and 8 will mark the first of three trials to be held here during the winter season, all during December and January.

The Pointer Club open all-age stake established a new national record entry list last season.

The first field with the 37th annual meet of the Continental Field Trial Club, believed to be the pioneer organization of its kind in this country. Entries will compete for members' stakes in the derby and all-age events.

The Pointer Club's competitions for members start December 4. The members' stake will open the meet December 4 and 5, to be followed by the all-age open and then the subscription derby.

Finally, the Pinehurst Field Trials Club, another pioneer bird dog organization, will conduct its trials the week of January 11.

The West End Golf Club team, champions of the North Georgia Golf league, will leave Saturday for Albany, where they will play the Radium Springs Golf Club team Sunday afternoon.

Early last May the West End team was defeated by Radium Springs, 8 to 6.

The West End team will include Captain Johnny Adamson, Gene Cook, Pete Barnes, K. Hunter, J. I. Cook Jr., Tommy Barnes, Bruce Morgan, Goat Cochran, J. B. McConnell and Larry Caudill.

QUIMET PRAISES BOBBY JONES

National Amateur Champ Takes No Credit as He Lauds Fellows.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Francis Quimet, national amateur golf champion, today paid tribute to the accomplishments of two other American stars on British links, Jess Sweetser and Bobby Jones.

Quimet and Helen Hicks, new national woman's golf champion, were the guests of honor at a luncheon given by the Downtown Athletic Club.

Responding to his introduction as "one of the most popular of all champions," Quimet described Sweetser's victory in the 1926 British amateur tournament as "the most courageous" he ever witnessed, in the face of heavy odds. He then paid tribute to Jones for the Georgian's "supreme concentration" in capturing the 1930 British amateur, thereby starting his career as a professional.

For the first time in many years the summer greens will be used for winter play without interruption. They were planted some time ago on the summer putting surfaces and during the growth of the winter grass, play continued. The new plan is working out unusually well and the Druid Hills greens are in better condition now than at any time in its history.

Golf Committees To Report Today.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Members of 13 subcommittees who have spent the last year delving into the nation's golfing problems will report to the executive committee of the United States Golf Association at its meeting here tomorrow.

The most important group is the one in charge of the task of selecting an official sphere to succeed the "balloon" ball.

The new ball to be offered the ruling body for its approval will be of the same diameter as the "balloon," but it will carry more weight, the same as the old, original ball. The committee is confident the latest design will settle the problem of an official ball for all time.

Dates for various minor tournaments will be set at tomorrow's meeting, but plans for the 1932 Walker cup matches on this side and the proposed new Curtis cup matches between the American stars of this country and Great Britain will be held in abeyance until the January meeting of the committee.

Bobby Honorary Pro Golf Official

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, former amateur golf champion, was today elected an honorary vice president by the Professional Golf Association at the closing session of its annual meeting. Jones was not present.

His election will not permit him to compete for professional championship until he has had three years professional apprenticeship.

Gene Sarazen was the chief speaker at today's meeting.

Bobby Jones declined to comment yesterday when informed of his election as honorary vice president of the Professional Golf Association at the annual meeting of the organization in Boston Wednesday.

"Until I've received official notification," he said, "I'd rather not comment on it."

Quarterback Question Good for Arguments

Experts Inclined To Agree That the Good Team Makes the Director Appear Clever.

By Jimmy Jones, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—"Good" quarterbacks, Cuban negro, will meet Tony Canzoneri in a 15-round bout for the lightweight championship in Madison Square Garden Friday night, the first warrior of his race to battle for that crown since Joe Gans slipped from the fistic heights 22 years ago.

Back in 1908 in Colma, Cal., Battling Nelson gave Gans a chance to regain the crown. Gans won from Frankie Erne in 1901 and lost to Nelson in 17 rounds in San Francisco, July 4, 1908. But Gans fell before Nelson's savagery in 21 rounds.

The Garden is talking of the first sell-out in almost two years and a gate of $60,000 at moderate prices. Furthermore Chocolate is conceded an even chance to take the lightweight title from the popular Italian who won it from Al Singer on a half-minute knockout last year, and twice since has whipped Jackie Kid Berg in his defense.

Two synthetic titles may be tossed into the battle pit along with the highly-prized lightweight crown. Chocolate is the junior lightweight champion, although the class is not recognized in New York state, and Canzoneri, by weighing 130 pounds or less, can bring this title into the ring as well.

Another touch, linking the present-day picture to days almost as far back as the Gans era, was the purchase by Madison Square Garden today of the lightweight championship belt last worn by Freddie Welsh, the Englishman Benny Leonard knocked out to win the title in nine rounds in 1917. Welsh, now dead, bequeathed his belt to his widow and the Garden bought it to present to Friday night's conqueror. Welsh won the belt from Willie Ritchie in England.

OUTSIDE GAME.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 18.—The Thomasville high school football team will meet the Georgia Military College reserves, of Milledgeville, here on Friday in the only non-conference game the locals have on their 1931 schedule.

JACKET DRILL FOR FLORIDANS HELD IN RAIN

Engineers Will Face Notre Dame Offense for Third Time.

By Jimmy Jones.

There have been home-coming games at Georgia Tech when there were more colorful football teams to attract the alumni, but officials of the school are counting on the best crowd of the season when the Jackets play Florida Saturday at Grant field.

A young eleven that has been playing a highly interesting brand of football for the last two weeks will bring them through the turnstiles for there will be many curious to see what manner of transformation has come over Alexander's sonhomore team.

And yesterday, although the weather was more suited to a cellophane coating than a football uniform, the Jackets went right ahead scrimmaging against Florida plays.

NOTRE DAME SYSTEM.

The "Gators," who are coached by Charley Bachman, will be the third team using the Notre Dame system that the Jackets have faced this season and they are pretty well familiar with the style.

Auburn and North Carolina were the others who employed Rockne strategems against the Engineers.

While they are not exactly worried about any "over-confidence" (unlikely for a team which has met so much adversity as Tech's), Jacket coaches are impressing their men with the fact that Florida is a very uncertain outfit and that the 6-6 tie with South Carolina was no small feat, despite the fact that Tech beat the Gamecocks.

FULL STRENGTH.

Tech will be able to throw her full strength against the "Gators." The players believe that if they win this game and make good showings in the remaining two, they can forget some of the hard knocks.

There will be another light scrimmage today, a light workout Friday and the boys will be ready for a luncheon for the alumni at noon in the Tech dining hall Saturday is the feature of the home-coming plans.

Florida Drilled On Jacket Plays.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 18.—Coach Charlie Bachman switched the training schedule for the Florida "Gators" today and sent his football team through an afternoon of defensive drill against Georgia Tech plays. Monday and Tuesday the "Gators" were drilled on offense.

Shubert, quarterback, returned to practice today and looked ready for play when Florida meets Tech on Grant field in Atlanta Saturday. Buck was injured in the last game, a 55-0 defeat that was the worst suffered by Tech in 23 years. But this is another football season, and Alexander's cohorts who look the field the favorites next Saturday.

Florida looked none too good against South Carolina in playing a 6-6 tie, and it will be remembered that Tech earlier shipped a special train to the touchdowns. In the past two weeks the Atlanta contingent has gathered new and powerful football momentum, and the Gators look with real concern upon their approaching battle.

George Beck, sophomore, whose brother Cecil was a versatile athlete and a fine halfback a few years ago, will receive special attention from Mentor Bachman this week. Although bespectacled George scales only 150 pounds, he is one of the fastest lads on the squad, has a neat passing arm, and blocks well. Coach Bachman has been distressed all season because of the absence of speed in his backfield, and Beck may be able to supply this essential.

ROGERO IS OUT.

Al Rogers, left halfback, who raced 65 yards for the "Gators" touchdown against Carolina, was horsed by combat Monday, as was Henry Richards, 170-pound sophomore, guard. Rogers may be in shape for the Tech game, but Richards' condition was regarded as unfavorable. The remainder of the squad emerged from their Tampa fray in good trim.

Kelley Will Accept On One Condition

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Mike Kelley, manager of the Minneapolis club of the American Association, today said he would take the presidency of the team if Donnie Bush, former pilot of the White Sox, would succeed him as manager. Bush refused to make an immediate decision, explaining he was considering an offer from a major league club.

Rates Announced For Tech-Florida

Reduced fares over the West Point route are announced for the Tech-Florida game here Saturday. The Georgia railroad will also offer low rates for the game.

One first-class one-way fare plus 25 cents will entitle round-trip transportation.

Over the West Point route tickets will be sold for all trains of November 19 and 20, with the Crescent Limited excepted. Return tickets will be limited to November 22.

Tickets over the Georgia road will be sold for trains of the same dates. The final limit of return will also be November 23.

First Fox Hound Field Trials Scheduled for Atlanta November 30

ALL-AGE RACE, DERBY PLANNED AT DIXIE LAKES

Initial Event Expected To Create Wide Interest in Georgia.

By Ralph McGill.

Atlanta's first fox hound field trial will be held 15 miles from the city at Dixie Lakes, November 30 to December 4, according to announcement by W. D. Hardaway, secretary of the Southeastern Fox Hunters' Association.

The trials are expected to attract a large number of hunters. Housing facilities have been arranged and a restaurant will supply food. This will be the first annual field trials of the southeastern association. There will be a derby and an all-age race. One of the interesting features provides that the "potlicker and corn pone" hounds will be admitted to the running along with the "paper" hounds.

RED FOX NUMEROUS. There are a number of red fox in the vicinity of Dixie Lakes and the various sites for casts will be selected with care so as to assure a good run each day.

Notices of the proposed trials have been sent to all communities and a great deal of interest is being shown already.

In the past Georgia fox hunting has been confined to south Georgia with the state meet held a few miles from Macon. Addition of the southeastern meet to the list of hunts will be an added spur to the sport.

WALKER HOUNDS. Georgia runs to July hounds but there will be enough of the Walker hound, favored in Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia, to create much interest in that competition. A Walker hound won the national trials a few days ago but the July breeders have never lost faith. It would not be all too surprising to find all the well known breeds represented as there are some Birdsons and Triggs in the state.

The July breed really originated in Georgia and the state has been one of the most famous in fox hunting circles until the past few years when Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia took over a dominant position.

The southeastern trials are open to all. Entries may be sent to W. D. Hardaway, 15 Hunter street, or to this office. Entries received here will be filed with the proper authorities. Due to the fact that this is the first meet there are no regular entry blanks. They may be written out. Officers will be elected after the first day's running and a permanent organization formed.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Krawtaw Rice

Two Captains.

No football game played this season will carry any more in the way of drama than the final meeting of Barry Wood and Albion Booth, the rival captains in Crimson and Blue.

Captain Booth, of Yale, has had more than his share of big days, but so far he has had none of them against Harvard. The Crimson has thrown out a red line of defense through which the alert and elusive Booth could make no headway. His darting feet and his baffling change of pace usually wound up in Big Ben Ticker's waiting arms.

Booth has had astonishing success against Army, Dartmouth, Brown and others. But Georgia and Harvard have throttled him in five starts and now this is his final chance to run the Crimson blockade.

On the other side, Barry Wood has known two of his best days against Yale. Last fall he won two years ago and after the Harvard-Yale game he remarked that Wood had given one of the finest exhibitions of quarterback play seen on any field. Wood mixed his forwards, his laterals and his running game perfectly to get the decision.

Last fall Wood again faked the Yale defense out of position as he pegged two passes to Hingley for the winning touchdowns. Wood, so far in 1931, has known his best year. He has made his mistakes, proving that he is merely human, but his general average and his winning value have been high.

On Saturday Wood and Booth, as rival captains, meet for the last time on a football field. They are by no means the whole show. There are two teams to be considered. There will be other stars. But there will also be an unusual amount of interest shown in the play of these two leaders—Wood out to carry his team to a fourth straight victory over Yale and an unbeaten season—Booth out to break down the Harvard domination that has lasted since 1928.

Both Wood and Booth are outstanding stars-up among the best—but so far Harvard has had a better defense against Booth's right arm. The story that Saturday will tell still remains to be written.

MYERS, SPYERT ARE NOT ABLE TO MAKE TRIP

Petrels Leaving Today for Haskell Game Minus Two Stars.

By Jack Troy.

The prospect is anything but happy as Oglethorpe's Petrels prepare today to leave for Chicago and their championship game with the Haskell Indians on Saturday. The squad of 25 players will entrain at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

If they leave behind two stellar backfield men, Dapper Myers and Clay (Lefty) Spyer, it was thought that the pair might possibly make the trip, but doctors have decided that the ardors of traveling would do no good.

Both were hurt in the Wake Forest game, Myers suffering an injured knee and Spyer leg bruises that prevent him from walking. Myers is hurt to such an extent that he may not get to play against Mercer here Thanksgiving Day, but Spyer is expected to return to the team.

KEEN LOSSES. Both losses will be keenly felt by the Petrels as they tackle the Haskell Indians who have lost only two games this season.

Fullback is the "key" position of the Oglethorpe team and the brain of the squad will rest on Jack Harrison, who had been dividing the assignment of late with Myers. Harrison, a fine blocker, line player and defensive player, is captain of the team.

Spyert was the Petrels' big hope of matching the triple passes of the Indians, a reputation that they often carry. Spyer has been taking triple passes around opposing ends with much success this season. The Indians feature lateral passes in their offensive scheme of things. The Petrels will have to be alert to reports, and in this department will find a worthy foe in Oglethorpe. Herrin, Anderson or Raines are good enough to handle these laterals.

NEED DRY DAY. The Petrels would find a dry day to their advantage as much as Haskell would, for passing plays a big part in the offensive scheme of things. Oglethorpe's submarine pass likely will have the Indians guessing before the game is over, and perhaps afterwards.

Coach Harry Robertson didn't let the rains interfere with yesterday's workout. For an hour and 45 minutes the squad drilled on Hermance field.

Due to the crippled condition of the varsity Coach Robertson struck scrimmage off the list of preparatory measures this week and substituted a lot of signal work.

The reserves, on the other hand, caught plenty of scrimmage against the freshmen.

THE LINEUP. The Petrels will take the field against Haskell, seeking their fourth victory of the season, with the following lineup: Parker Bryant and Paul Goldsmith, ends; Dan Kenzie and Dave Barrow, tackles; John Patrick and Marion Whaley, guards; Andy Morrow, center; Claude Herrin, quarterback; Frank Anderson Jr., fullback; Nammie Raines, halfbacks; and Harrison, fullback.

Within five days after they play Haskell the Petrels will return to the Mercer in a Thanksgiving Day homecoming classic.

Making the trip today, besides Coach Robertson and the 25 players, will be a staff of 15, including Coach Jack Overton, freshman coach, in charge of transportation; Manager Howard Martin and Trainer Al Church.

The Petrels will hold a short workout this afternoon before their departure.

BREAK of the DAY

It was said to be the exploitation of Joe Savoldi which brought the break. Lewis could, of course, pin Savoldi within the space of two or three minutes. And to see the young fellow drawing the gates was too much. The break means that London, a legitimate champion, is even more dominant than before. His continued wins, with no evidences of another champion coming in, has done the game good.

HERE IN ATLANTA.

The game goes on in Atlanta despite the competition of football. Henry Weber has done well in building the game on an honest basis. The commission is right in ruling that he should be allowed to promote the game without interference. It was abandoned here for years with no one touching it. Any one could have started promoting wrestling. No one did until Weber took it up with more than two years of hard work. Honest promoters and honest efforts on the part of the champion are keeping the game popular.

COACHES DRIVE HASKELL SQUAD AT HIGH SPEED

Indians Work Hard for Oglethorpe Game; Great Crowd Seen.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 18.—With but a few days to prepare for their intercollegiate football game with Oglethorpe on Saturday at Chicago, the Haskell Indians are being pushed at high speed by Coach W. H. (Lone Star) Dietz.

The Braves were bruised and battered in their contest Saturday with the powerful and undefeated Oklahoma City University Goldenbuds, but the Indian trainers expect to have injured players off to the hospital list by this week-end.

Captain Louis (Little Rabbit) Weller was almost bottled up by the Goldenbuds and left the game in the second half with a leg injury. The flashy Caddo Indian broken field specialist will be ready for the Oglethorpe game.

With Weller out of the Goldenbud game, Walter Johnson, fullback, and Robert Holmes, diminutive under study of the Haskell captain, were the stars. Johnson's 43-yard dash for a touchdown late in the game was sensational, and Holmes contributed numerous long gains.

Reports from Chicago indicate that the Braves and Oglethorpe will play before a crowd of from 75,000 to 100,000 fans next Saturday in their contribution to charity. The game is to be played under the auspices of the Disabled American Veterans.

The Indians are praying for a dry field this week in order to permit the use of the triple and lateral passes at which they are adept. The work of Captain Weller and Holmes will also be enhanced by a dry turf.

Indians May Drill With Northwestern.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—When the Haskell Indians arrive in Chicago for their football game with Oglethorpe University, of Atlanta, Ga., at Soldier field next Saturday, they will go direct to the DeLoe stadium and work out, and probably scrimmage with the Northwestern Wildcats. This arrangement was made possible through the suggestion of Dick Hanley, football mentor, who coached the Indian eleven for several seasons.

An angle of interest to football fans in this section is the coaching of W. H. (Lone Star) Dietz, Sioux Indian and protégé and former assistant of Pop Warner at Haskell, and Coach Harry Robertson, of Oglethorpe. Robertson was selected as All-American center in 1919.

Dan Kenzie, graduate of De La Salle High school, Chicago, will be one man on the Georgia eleven likely to cause the Indians much trouble, along with Captain Parker Bryant and Frank Anderson.

Twomey Leaves To Scout Trojans

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 18.—Ted Twomey, tackle coach at University of Georgia, left Athens tonight to scout Southern California in the game with Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend.

The Bulldogs will play the Trojans at Los Angeles December 12.

Bowdon Prepares For Home-Comeing

BOWDON, Ga., Nov. 18.—A Bowdon College team that has had that old traveling spirit of Notre Dame, will appear in a home-coming game against Rollins College here Saturday afternoon.

The Bowdon Bulldogs have played eight games and the first of the series, a flag tournament, will be played November 20 on the John A. White municipal course.

Mrs. Carlyle Fraser, president, announced that she will sponsor a "jubilee" tournament early in the spring, provided the membership of the association reaches 35 by that time.

Play in a "turkey" tournament, the winners to receive a Thanksgiving turkey, started Monday and will continue through next Wednesday. It is being sponsored by the Piedmont Park Woman's Golf Association and is a mixed Scotch foursome affair.

Tulane Won't Meet Vols This Year

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—(UP)—A post-season football game with Tennessee University is out of the question for the Tulane football team, Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, athletic director at the school, said this afternoon.

"Our boys play their eleven straight game with Washington State on December 5. That will make 11 consecutive Saturdays they will have played football. They have to go to school some time. A post-season game with Tennessee is impossible," Dr. Smith said.

He said he had not yet been notified that the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce has agreed to underwrite a post-season game between Tulane and Tennessee. Birmingham hotels had agreed to furnish members of the two teams free lodging. The gate receipts of the game would go to charity organizations in Knoxville and New Orleans after expenses of the game had been deducted.

Asked if Tulane would accept an invitation to play in California's Rose Bowl on January 1, Dr. Smith said the athletic council would likely accept the invitation if tendered there. He said there had been no communication between Southern California and Tulane regarding the New Year's game, that he knew of. "The boys would have time to get some rest and diversion from the football field between the date of the Washington State game and New Year's Day," he said.

Juniors, Seniors Tie at Emory

Playing in a steady rain on a soggy turf, the junior football team at Emory held the top-ranking seniors to a scoreless deadlock Wednesday on the new field at Emory.

This was the sixth tie game at Emory this season and, incidentally, was the second straight that these two teams have played. Their first encounter resulted in a 6-6 tie.

Starting on the senior 40-yard line in the first half, mainly due to the consistent driving of Tom Law, and the end play of Dana Creel, the juniors scored a 15-yard line early in the second quarter, the seniors drove to the 15-yard line for their best scoring threat during the entire game. Here the seniors walked up and the ball went over on downs.

The seniors played best during the second half, taking advantage of the breaks offered by Foster Memory, senior end, twice recovered junior fumbles in the second half, and once he blocked Candler's kick. His first recovery came on the junior 30, in the third quarter. After Jim Franklin had advanced 10 yards, Tom Law broke up the senior threat by intercepting a pass on the 15-yard line.

Scott Hogg gained the most ground for the seniors, aided by Roy Sellers and Harry Lange. Memory, Irwin, and Griffin played best in the senior line. For the juniors, Tom Law did most of the gaining, with Creel, Worthy and Camp performing best in the line.

Notre Dame Running Attack Is Overhauled for Trojan Game

Joe Engel Sponsors Pro Court Quintet

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 18. (AP)—Joe Engel, president of the Chattanooga baseball club, will sponsor a professional basketball team this winter, his lieutenants also to be known as Lookouts.

This team will have the same personnel as that of the Toppers or Railites who have won the southern pro championship for the past two years. Former backers decided not to support the team this year.

Army-Navy Game Probable Sell-Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. (AP)—Confidence that the Yankee stadium will be packed at the Army-Navy football game December 12 for the unemployed was expressed today at a conference of West Point and Annapolis athletic officials.

They said they were being swamped with applications for tickets and expected a sell-out.

Final details for the game were arranged at the meeting.

JONES WINNER, JENNINGS DRAWS WITH STEINBORN

Nazzarino Poggi Sensation as He Extended Tall Texan.

Paul Jones won the decision from Nazzarino Poggi Wednesday night at the Auditorium in their heavyweight wrestling match, but he will be around slapping no one on the back and telling about it.

Like as not, Paul Jones will crank up and get out of town. Because Nazzarino Poggi, the Eye-Talian, almost made a monkey out of Paul Jones. Jones was taller and heavier but he could not keep a hold on Poggi than he could handle an armful of snakes. Poggi kept slipping out.

JUST A LAUGH.

And Paul Jones' dreaded "Figure Four" was just a laugh to Poggi. He went to the ropes and leaned over to break it. Five times he broke the hold. Once he fooled Jones and made him look very ludicrous. He got to his knees while in the grip of the leg hold. And then he walked, monkey fashion, on his hands and feet, and walked Jones, whose legs were tied about Poggi's body, right out of the ring. Maybe it isn't clear to you. But the fact remains that Poggi, by one method or another, broke that hold every time Jones got it.

Poggi had Jones about out. In fact, they were both nearly gone. Poggi dived for Jones after weakening the Texan still further with a series of headlocks. He went sailing out of the ring. It was the third time he had taken a fall down the four or five feet from the ring to the floor. He was counted out before he could come back.

BUT POGGI DIDN'T.

The crowd left, Poggi did not. He came back for the second fall despite the fact that he was too weak and exhausted and suffering from what appeared to be a cracked rib. He is little but loud, is Poggi. It was a great match and Poggi won a world of friends by his cleverness and his gameness. He went more than an hour in the first fall.

The semi-windup was a thrilling match, in which Sun Jennings, the Cherokee Indian, wrestled a one-hour draw with Milo Steinborn.

A great crowd witnessed the matches, despite the fact that the night was a rainy one.

Rabun Gap Fives Win Double-Header

RABUN, Ga., Nov. 18.—Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school won a double-header basketball game from Clayton High school here. The Rabun second team defeated Clayton's second team, 16 to 8, to open the program and the Rabun varsity made a clean sweep of the double-header with a 27-to-11 victory. It is the first attempt to play basketball at the mountain school.

Have You Seen Little Brown Jug?

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 18. (AP)—The University of Minnesota student newspaper today demanded that Michigan produce "the little brown jug." Several weeks ago the Daily took lightly reports the time-honored football trophy of the institutions had disappeared at Ann Arbor.

But the jug hasn't returned and, the Daily said, "the situation grows more serious as the big game at Ann Arbor Saturday approaches."

It said, "Whoever is responsible for the vanishing act should be jerked into line. Our ultimatum to Michigan is produce that jug."

JACKET ALUMNI PLAN REUNION

No Speeches at Dinner Honoring Team, Jones November 21.

Saturday, November 21, will be a big day for the Georgia Tech alumni. Home-coming festivities will be in order. There will be an alumni luncheon in the Tech dining hall at 12 o'clock, in honor of Tech's young team and Robert Tyre Jones Jr., recently elected president of the Tech Alumni Association.

The Ramblin' Wreck orchestra will play during the meal and there will be lots of cheering, but no speeches will be in order. Adjourning will come at 1 p. m. Various dances and receptions will extend into the evening.

Reunions are scheduled for the classes of 1891, '96, 1901, '06, '11, '16, '21, '26 and 1931. Many out-of-town alumni are expected with the usual fine turnout that comes on the occasion of the annual Florida game.

Attention is called to the fact that Tech's football teams have won eight southern championships and two national championships.

Tech had no football losses in the south during 1916, 1917, 1918, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1927 and 1928, with one loss in 1915 and one in 1925.

Officers and the executives of the Tech National Alumni Association are: President, Robert Tyre Jones Jr.; vice presidents, A. L. Loeb and Jack Thiesen; treasurer, Ed C. Liddell. Other board members are R. D. Cole III, George T. Marchmont, J. T. Montague and Frank M. Spratlin.

Jackie Fields Idle With Broken Hand

CHICAGO, Nov. 18. (AP)—Jackie Fields, former world's welterweight champion, will be laid up two months due to a broken left hand received in his bout with Jimmy Delmont in Pittsburgh Monday night. Fields will leave tonight for Los Angeles to remain until ready for the ring again.

BULLDOGS MEAN AS THEY GROWL THROUGH DRILL

Mehre's Boys Smear Auburn's Plays Run by Georgia Freshmen

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 18.—Evidently some one told the Georgia Bulldogs about that man who announced over the radio this morning that Auburn was going to lick Georgia next Saturday. Today's practice of Harry Mehre's boys resembled a lot of mountaineers oiling up their trusty 35's for a little feuding instead of a very good football team getting ready to meet a good football team.

Where Tuesday there had been undecision and uncertainty on the part of the varsity, today there was dash, decisive cohesion on every play. A freshman team looked great Tuesday carrying the ball through the regulars with their Auburn plays. Today those freshmen had their nice Auburn plays smeared for losses repeatedly. Their prancing backs had a worm's-eye-view of scrimmage most of the afternoon.

WILLIAM BELL DAVID.

There was one young man named William Bell David who did not begin to practice with the varsity until the ball was taken away from the freshmen and given to Harry Mehre's team. It was probably the first time William Bell David had ever played with the varsity in scrimmage. For his activities have been confined heretofore to the Red Devils, who ran New York University, Yale, North Carolina, Vanderbilt, and Florida plays against the varsity so well that the varsity did very well against the aforementioned institutions' football teams.

William Bell, who is a modest young man from Calhoun, Ga., appeared surprised when Harry called on him to play right half on the varsity. Being a loyal son of old Georgia, however, he hastened over and took the halfback position. The ball came back to him and he began to show some of the boys plenty of speed and drive in going through that freshman line, a very husky line indeed. He did not confuse his activities in line plunges. He went around with a lot of speed and elation.

Harry Mehre was very much impressed with young William, although Harry, who does not talk much about for the season. The line played above did not say so in so many words. William Bell David today gave signs of being a very good blocker in addition to his drive in going through that freshman line. He was a junior, but he was two years of football after this season.

SCRIMMAGE TODAY.

You need not look for William Bell David's name in the papers as a Georgia star this fall. But you should hear plenty about him next year. He is a very nice halfback. Final scrimmage for the Bulldogs before they meet Auburn will be Thursday afternoon as a few of the regulars who did a lot of playing against Bernie Bierman's Green Wave Saturday have not scrimmaged at all this week. They will make up for it tomorrow. Harry has announced that all the boys will get a stiff bit of work Thursday afternoon as the final hard preparation for Auburn. The Bulldogs get a light practice Friday afternoon and leave for Auburn at 8 that night.

Citizens of the fair city of Athens have become highly alarmed over that Auburn game. They fear a defeat. Some one, they say, declared over the radio this morning that Auburn would win, which is alarming, to say the least, to those Georgia supporters who have been unable to forget Tulane. Auburn, they say, is set for a good game Saturday, what with a defeat by Tulane and a narrow victory over Sewanee on successive Saturdays.

Auburn Drills On Place-Kicking.

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 18.—Dissatisfied because his charges failed to show an invincible scoring attack when deep in Sewanee's territory in Birmingham last week, Coach Chet Wynne today gave his second and third-stringers a lengthy offensive workout against the freshmen in advance of the ball across the goal line from the 20-yard stripe in preparation for Auburn's hard and important classic with the Georgia Bulldogs in Columbus, Ga., Saturday. The tilt with the Athenians is the Tigers' semi-final game, as their schedule closes against South Carolina in Montgomery Thanksgiving Day.

The Plainsmen defeated Sewanee, 12 to 0, but should have annexed more touchdowns since they accumulated 394 yards against the Purple and White Tigers' 97.

Another fault that cropped out in the Sewanee fray and has been evident all season—lack of a capable place-kicker—is receiving much attention in the drills for the battle with Harry Mehre's eleven. Fifteen touchdowns have been scored by Auburn this season and only a third of the chances for the extra point have been made good, and three of the five were scored in the Spring Hill game.

David Aerial, outstanding end, is being tried in the place-kicking department, along with Jimmie Hitchcock, Lindley Hatfield, Allen Rogers, Firpo Phipps and Co-Captain Charlie Davidson. At times these boys look good in the art of sending the calf-skin through the uprights, but none have thoroughly satisfied Wynne. Auburn has not been successful in making the extra marker this year, but it is not because Wynne has not spent much time trying to place an educated, crusty toe on at least one of the Tigers.

Ike Parker, quarterback, and Lindley Hatfield, halfback, two probable starters at Memorial stadium in the Electric City, participated in the rough work against the first-year team because Wynne wanted to see if Parker had recovered from his recent illness and if Hatfield was the same Hatfield that showed flashes of brilliance against Sewanee in the final quarter. Both looked good against the Rams and stand a much better chance of opening against the Bulldogs than they did before the mock battle began.

Hatfield worked hard to gain additional yards when first tackled and his work drew words of praise from Coach Roger Kiley. The ex-All-State performer from Cloverdale, Montgomery, realizes that Saturday will be his last opportunity to face the Athenians and he is working hard to face the Canines in a starting role.

Tifton Rams Keep Home Slate Clean

TIFTON, Ga., Nov. 18.—When the Georgia State College for Men closed its current home football season with a 20-0 victory over the "P" team of the University of Florida it kept for another year its world record of never having been defeated on its home field.

During the five years of its existence only six games have been lost on foreign fields. The schedules for the five years list largely S. I. A. A. teams and "P" teams of the Southern conference institutions.

R. E. LEE LOS'T TO RUSSELL, 7-0

East Point Eleven Averages Last Year's Defeat in Mud.

Russell High avenged its defeat of last year with a 7-0 victory over R. E. Lee, of Thomaston, Wednesday afternoon on a muddy field at East Point.

Russell scored the only touchdown of the game late in the first period on a drive that started from the 45-yard line. The march to a touchdown was featured by off-tackle plays and the line bucks when "P" team's Stallings, Diggs and Clay jugging the ball. Clay bucked over center for the score and then kicked goal from place for the extra point.

R. E. Lee attempted a comeback late in the second quarter, but an alert, hard-charging Russell line stopped the rally a few yards short of the goal. Again in the fourth period, R. E. Lee staged a brief rally with an aerial attack, but was halted before any damage was done.

Russell came back strong in the third period with a passing game that almost netted another touchdown. The drive was stopped within the 10-yard line, when one of the backs lost his footing in the mud, on an attempted short run.

Despite a wet ball, the game was featured by the numerous short passes completed on both sides. Both running attacks, except for Russell's scoring drives, were negligible.

Captain Stallings, Clay and Diggs, in the backfield, and the entire Russell line played well. Putman, in the backfield, was the outstanding star for Thomaston. Orville Mohler played in his stead, along with the usual first team backfield, composed of Jimmy Musick at fullback and Ernie Pinckert and Tom Mallory, halfbacks.

REGATTA.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—(AP) Announcement that the 1932 championship regatta of the National Association of American Oarsmen will be held on the Schuylkill river here July 1 and 2 was made tonight by President Harry Penn Burke.

HUNK ANDERSON REVIEWS PLAYS, ADDS NEW ONES

Fears Injuries; Trojan Line Expected To Be Changed.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 18.—(AP) Notre Dame's running attack was given a thorough overhauling today by Coach Hunk Anderson as he sent his first and second teams through a two-hour dummy scrimmage. Every play used to date was reviewed and several were added.

Fear of more injuries prompted Coach Anderson to call off the regulation Wednesday afternoon scrimmage. George Melinkovich, victim of an injured shoulder, was in uniform again today but did not take part in the practice except for a short signal drill.

Melinkovich's chances of starting in Saturday's battle against Southern California's Trojans still were considered remote, although he was recovering rapidly.

Coach Anderson tried three full-backs in Melinkovich's vacated post today. Steve Banas started on the job and was followed by Bernie Leahy and Jimmy Leonard.

Trojan Linemen Shifted in Drill.

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 18.—(AP)—As the University of Southern California football team made its first stop for a workout here today while en route to South Bend, Ind., there was strong indication that the Trojan line will be considerably shaken up when it faces Notre Dame Saturday.

Coach Howard Jones put his team through a two-hour drill, mainly defensive, with Aubrey Devine, former star quarterback at Iowa, and now assistant to Jones, impersonating Marchmont Schwartz.

At ends were Garrett Arbelide and Johnny Baker, who until recently was a first string running guard. The tackles were Bob Eskrine, a made-over halfback, and Raymond Brown. Erny Smith, originally a tackle, was playing guard with Aaron Rosenberg, and Captain Stanley Williamson was at center.

Gaius Shaver did not take part in the workout because of a slightly infected foot, but he was expected to be in shape Saturday. Orville Mohler played in his stead, along with the usual first team backfield, composed of Jimmy Musick at fullback and Ernie Pinckert and Tom Mallory, halfbacks.

Tone of the Markets

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Stocks gave up without a struggle today, declining steadily from the opening and reaching their lows in the last hour.

The reaction, which averaged 3 points, put the market back to the level of late October.

Bonds were spotty, although rather inactive. Bar silver advanced both here and in London, while wheat dropped 2 cents and more, carrying other wheat relatively but could not fight the trend of other markets and closed 40 to 60 cents a bale lower.

Copper and rail stocks appeared to be the weakest groups, although there were numerous gains in others.

United States Steel, American Telephone & Telegraph, American Sugar and Chemical, American Can and Allied Chemical, Coca-Cola lost 3 points or so net.

New York Central, Illinois Central, Western Union, Delaware and Hudson, Westinghouse and Western Union touched new lows. Trading, however, was quiet, although sales of 1,002,240 shares were the largest of the year.

Apparent failure of the copper conference, brought in its wake at least one offering price of 6-9 cents but no metal was taken.

The railroads' difficulties, aggravated by the fact that there was virtually no tonnage rise in freight loadings this year, were forced to fore with the omission of Chicago & North Western's common and preferred payments for the first time since the latter had been paying cash.

Usually since 1908, there was no element of surprise in the action of either board.
